Name Ball Successor To Goldberg in U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has chosen former State Department official George W. Ball, a strong advocate of a negotiated Vietnam war settlement, to succeed Arthur Goldberg as ambassador to the United Nations.

The sudden, surprise choice of Ball, 58, to succeed the retiring Goldberg was viewed in the capital as fresh evidence that Johnson had decided to make a determined effort during his last nine months in office to negotiate an end to the Vietnam war.

Ball has made his criticisms of U.S. policy known particularly since resigning as undersecretary of state in October 1966. Thus his willingness to return to government surprised Washington circles as much as did Johnson's decision to ask him back.

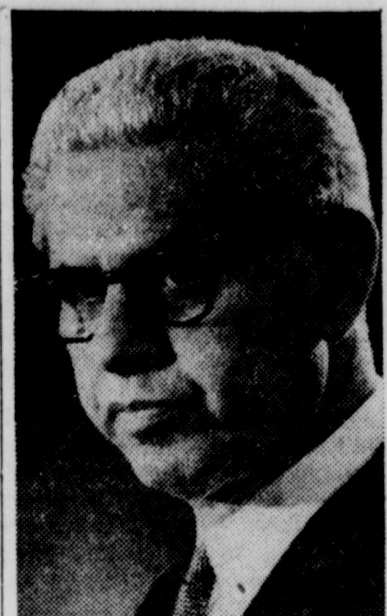

Reached Thursday evening by telephone in Mont Tremblant, near Montreal, Canada, where he is attending a conference of an independent group concerned with Atlantic community problems, Ball said:

"The President has removed himself from the political arena so he can make decisions which would be much more difficult if he were a political candidate.

"Therefore the period that remains could be a very fruitful period."

Johnson announced Thursday at a hastily called news conference that Goldberg, 59, had resigned and would be replaced by Ball. The President said the change would probably become effective in early June after Goldberg handles "certain matters now under way" at the United Nations.

ARTHUR J. GOLDBERG

Goldberg will in fact handle the U.S. argument for U.N. acceptance of a treaty proposed by this country, the Soviet Union and Britain to outlaw the spread of nuclear weapons.

Goldberg indicated openly almost six months ago that he did not consider his U.N. position as a career. Johnson called him from the Supreme Court in mid-1965 to become ambassador to the world organization and recently he has privately expressed interest in returning to the practice of law.

At a New York news conference following the President's announcement, Goldberg said he had worked in the cause of Vietnam peace during his 33 months as U.N. ambassador. He added:

"I have resigned in the belief that I can best further these objectives in private life," he said. While acknowledging there had been Vietnam policy differences within the administration, he said that had not motivated his decision to resign.

Ball, like Goldberg, entered the John F. Kennedy administration in January 1961. Goldberg was President Kennedy's first secretary of labor.

Ball and Goldberg, both have been known in the government as Vietnam policy critics, although Goldberg's views have been less sharply defined in public since he has not been outside government service. He has worked for negotiations at the United Nations.

Blood Capsule Injures Actor

LONDON (AP) — Actor Richard Burton aimed his pistol at the Gestapo colonel and fired.

Colonel Van Hapen—actor Derren Nesbitt—fell to the floor in agony.

"Great," said director Brian Hutton.

But then Nesbitt did not get up. He was temporarily blind.

A device hidden in his Nazi uniform to produce "blood" blew up in his face and Nesbitt was taken to a hospital.

"He will not be back on the set for several days," a film official said.

The accident occurred during filming of Burton's new film "Where Eagles Dare" being made at a movie studio near London.

LBJ To Join In Politicking For Demos

Gives No Hint Just What Role He Will Play

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he'll join in the politicking this year even if he won't be running for re-election.

His March 31 announcement removing himself from consideration for another term, he told an audience of Democrats Thursday, "does not mean that I am going to be an uninterested or passive bystander."

Then what did it mean? Johnson gave no specifics and left unanswered such questions as whether he might get into the political act before his party chooses a presidential candidate.

But he couldn't be uninterested when the record "that you and I have helped to make is going to put before the country," he said.

In his March 31 address to the nation Johnson almost offhandedly commented that he wouldn't accept renomination, much less seek it, because "I do not believe that I should devote an hour or a day of my time to any personal partisan causes or to any duties other than the awesome duties of this office—the presidency of your country."

His remarks Thursday to the Burro Club, a group of assistants to Democratic members of Congress, seemed to indicate Johnson will not be a total abstainer from the campaign.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told a Democratic gathering Thursday in Jackson, Tenn., he will carry the record of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations to the people "whatever may be my role."

Also crisscrossing Indiana in pursuit of votes was McCarthy, who termed the presidential election this year the most critical since 1932.

The pivotal issues, he said, are foreign policy, especially as regards the Vietnam war, deciding which problems at home and abroad rate attention first and "a kind of testing of American democracy."

A prediction that the contest for the Republican nomination will soon pick up interest came from Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky. Morton said he is confident New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will be in the running within three to four weeks.

Red Satellite Seen Possible Space Bomb

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today announced the launching of another unmanned earth satellite with an unusual orbit.

Cosmos 219 was reported circling the earth at distances ranging from 133 miles to 1,097 miles.

It was the third Soviet satellite put up in the last three days. Cosmos 218 Thursday appeared to be another test of an orbital bomb system that the United States suspects the Soviets are developing. Cosmos 217 on Wednesday had a high, unique orbit.

The Soviet space authorities, as usual, did not reveal the missions of any of the three satellites and said only that they were carrying out space research.

A spurt of space activity this month has caused speculation the Soviet Union is preparing a space spectacular, perhaps involving several cosmonauts and linkups of two or more space ships.

There were new reports from South Vietnam's national police that the Viet Cong were bringing arms into the capital to prepare for another "terrorist" campaign against the city similar to the Tet offensive.

Police said they found 10 Soviet AK47 automatic rifles aboard a junk at Saigon's riverfront dock. They did not say if any arrests were made.

Premier Nguyen Van Loc suggested Thursday that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese

Disclose U.S. Gold Outflow During Crisis $2.2 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government shelled out about $2.2 billion of the nation's gold to foreign buyers during the gold crisis which reached its frenzied peak about one month ago.

This was the accounting the Treasury Department revealed late Thursday of U.S. gold losses which dropped the nation's entire supply to its lowest level in 32 years by the end of March — $10.703 billion.

There were indications of a further minor loss this month in sales to foreign governments but exact figures won't be available for another month.

No formal announcement was made by the department, which merely included the figures among the scores of tables it publishes monthly in the "Treasury Bulletin."

The over-all gold loss reached a monthly record during March at $1.197 billion, the bulk of it to cover wild buying on the London gold market before the flow of government gold to speculators was halted in mid-March.

Devaluation of the British pound on Nov. 18 triggered the rush to buy gold and eventually led to a breakup of the London gold pool—the group of seven nations which provided enough gold from their reserves to meet the demand for the metal on the London market.

The purpose was to hold the price at $35 an ounce.

Here's how the Treasury broke down the U.S. gold drain:

—A total net loss of $2.262 billion for December through March. This included all gold lost since devaluation as part of the gold pool.

—Domestic sales of just over $63 million during the same period including about $14.1 million in March, the last month for sales to private American industrial users.

This left net sales to foreign buyers at roughly $2.2 billion.

An agreement among the gold pool partners last month fixed a two-price system—one of $35 an ounce among governments and a higher price set by supply and demand on the free market.

The governments agreed not to buy and sell gold on the open market and the United States ended sales to domestic users, forcing them to buy at the higher market price.

Before March, the previous record drain was $900 million in December.

Report Progress in Phone Strike Talks in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reports of progress continued from closely guarded contract talks in the nationwide telephone strike while more workers voted on whether to join the 200,000 already involved in the nine-day-old walkout.

Informed sources said negotiators for the striking AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America and the Bell Telephone System were moving closer to a contract agreement.

The strike is under way in 40 or more states but nationwide telephone service has been little affected since management personnel are filing in for strikers and automatic dialing equipment is handling most calls.

The 23,000 installers, who work in most states, spread the strike to nationwide proportions, the first such telephone walkout in 21 years. The installers work for the Bell System subsidiary Western Electric Co.

About 140,000 operators, linemen, repairmen, clerks and other employees in 15 states where Bell System contracts have expired are also on strike. Thousands of other Bell workers in states where their contracts have not expired are refusing to cross installers' picket lines.

The union rejected an 18-month wage increase offer of 7.5 per cent before the strike. Negotiators are discussing a completely new three-year contract, covering fringe benefits and working conditions in addition to wages.

Bell contracts in 15 more states, covering more than 100,000 additional workers, will expire between May 1 and May 14.

I-70 Work Bids To Be Opened

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Highways will open bids here April 30 with a section of Interstate 70 in Madison County the largest project on the list.

"Highway Director P. E. Masheter estimates that by the end of summer all of Interstate 70 from east of Springfield to the Columbus outerbelt will be under contract.

The $6.2 million project lies between a point west of the Lafayette-Mechanicsburg Road and east of Ohio 29. The 4.7-mile section is north of and generally parallel to U.S. 40.

Columbia U Bows To Student Group; Halts Gym Work

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University bowed today to a militant student protest that had disrupted campus life for three days and said it would halt construction of a controversial gymnasium until further notice.

The reversal came in an announcement by university Vice President David B. Truman before a wildly cheering crowd of 150 white and Negro onlookers gathered on the steps of Low Memorial Library.

Truman also said the entire university would be closed until Monday to permit further talks between the administration, faculty and Mayor John V. Lindsay.

The concession seemed to drain much of the tension that had built up on the Ivy League campus but student demonstrators continued their sit-in at five campus buildings.

They apparently were hoping that the university also would yield to their second principal demand, amnesty for all demonstrators.

President Grayson Kirk announced Thursday that no amnesty would be granted. He said such a concession would "destroy the whole fabric of the university community" by making a sham of the college rules.

An hour before Truman spoke, a double file of about 20 plainclothes police, some carrying nightsticks, pushed past a dozen faculty members stationed before the library door.

One woman was pushed to the ground and stepped on and a male French instructor was clubbed on the head. He was treated for a scalp cut at a hospital and released.

When the protest began Tuesday noon the demonstrators, organized by the Students for a Democratic Society, demanded that the gym construction in Harlem's nearby Morningside Park be halted and the university sever its ties with the Institute for Defense Analysis.

Later they added the demand for amnesty and agreed that the IDA issue could be negotiated if the university yielded on the other two demands.

Although the demonstrators numbered only several hundred out of the total enrollment of 27,500 they forced the university to cancel night classes Wednesday and Thursday and barred the 2,500 of Columbia's 10,000 day students from classes Thursday.

The Columbia demonstrators first seized control Tuesday of Hamilton Hall, the university's main classroom building and one of about 70 on the upper Manhattan campus.

Early Wednesday they moved into President Kirk's office in Low Library, ransacking the premises. Others occupied Avery Hall and Fayerweather Hall. Early today 60 students dashed to the Mathematics Building and quickly barricaded themselves inside.

Only three men voted against the strike resolution, which affirmed the dockers' support for the inflammatory speech by Enoch Powell demanding a ban on colored immigration. Powell's speech earned him immediate dismissal from the inner councils of the Conservative party and a surge of support from workers who fear the competition of colored immigrants from the West Indies, Africa and Asia.

Grove of Buckeye Trees Planted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A grove of Buckeye trees was planted at the State Fairgrounds today by Gov. James A. Rhodes and a group of children observing Arbor Day, with officials of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources looking on.

Representatives of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America, and Columbus public and parochial school students took part in the ceremony.

Capt. Simmons had served the section since 1965 and prior to that was stationed at Warren, Coal Grove, Portsmouth, Middletown, Sidney, Piqua and Cambridge during his 27-year career with the Patrol.

British Strike Against Law

Want Immigration Of Colored Halted

LONDON (AP) — Thousands of London dock workers struck again today for another march on Parliament to protest colored immigrants in Britain.

The strikers shouted down a Roman Catholic priest and Protestant clergymen who were introduced by a Communist union leader in an attempt to persuade them back to work. Scores of ships in the teeming port were left idle by the 24-hour walkout.

At Tilbury, the port's deep-water section handling liners for the Far East and Australia, only 65 of the usual 2,000 men reported for work. All work stopped on 12 liners.

Up river at the Royal Group, a meeting of 2,000 longshoremen howled down leftist opponents of the walkout who led last year's four-month dock strike, from which the port is only now recovering.

Only three men voted against the strike resolution, which affirmed the dockers' support for the inflammatory speech by Enoch Powell demanding a ban on colored immigration. Powell's speech earned him immediate dismissal from the inner councils of the Conservative party and a surge of support from workers who fear the competition of colored immigrants from the West Indies, Africa and Asia.

Capt. O. J. Simmons To Leave Patrol

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Retirement of Capt. Olin J. Simmons, commander of the Driver and Vehicles Services Section of the Ohio Highway Patrol was announced today by the Patrol commander, Col. Robert M. Chiaromonte.

Capt. Simmons had served the section since 1965 and prior to that was stationed at Warren, Coal Grove, Portsmouth, Middletown, Sidney, Piqua and Cambridge during his 27-year career with the Patrol.

B52s Try To Block Reported New Viet Red Attack

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers, flying some of the war's closest raids to Saigon, hit enemy targets within 26 miles of the capital today to break up Viet Cong forces believed massing for their second major offensive of 1968.

The raids came after South Vietnamese police ordered all boats and vehicles entering Saigon be searched for arms and explosives. The police had earlier thwarted a Viet Cong attempt to smuggle guns into the capital on a river junk.

Tons of explosives fell from the giant bombers on three sorties over enemy bunkers, weapons positions and troop concentrations, six to eight miles west-southwest of Ben Cat, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division.

Raids in February had hit targets 10 miles north of Saigon.

As fear of another attack on the capital mounted, American infantrymen combing the provinces around Saigon fought a series of small battles Thursday. Meanwhile, U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese positions in the A Shau Valley, in the northern part of the country, again and again.

There were new reports from South Vietnam's national police that the Viet Cong were bringing arms into the capital to prepare for another "terrorist" campaign against the city similar to the Tet offensive.

Police said they found 10 Soviet AK47 automatic rifles aboard a junk at Saigon's riverfront dock. They did not say if any arrests were made.

Premier Nguyen Van Loc suggested Thursday that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese might be planning another attack on Saigon to improve their military position before peace negotiations. South Vietnamese army units in the provinces around Saigon have been on 100 per cent alert all week in anticipation of a new enemy attack.

In the continuing small-scale fighting around the capital, 10 U.S. soldiers were killed and 82 wounded in actions 12 to 38 miles from Saigon.

Only 26 enemy were reported dead in the battles, and 18 of them were killed by U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers that attacked a bunker complex 25 miles northwest of the capital. The jets were called in to help units of the 25th Infantry Division. The infantry reported the air attacks destroyed 99 enemy bunkers and damaged another 25.

While the South Vietnamese were fearful of a new attack on Saigon, U.S. intelligence officers exhibited greatest concern about the North Vietnamese concentrations in the A Shau Valley, which they said threatened the Hue area. These sources said the enemy has 15 to 20 battalions in the area and could commit them to an all-out attack on Hue "in a matter of hours."

The B52s hit weapons positions and storage areas in the valley three times Thursday night and with three more raids this morning. They also made two raids on troop concentrations 13 and 17 miles southwest of Hue, between the valley and the old imperial capital on the coast. Since the first of the month, the eight-engine bombers have flown more than 500 missions in the A Shau area.

Self-Interest Hampers War, Admiral Says

Defense Contracts Shunned for Less Rigid Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover charges that some corporations have refused, or delayed accepting, contracts to produce critically needed defense materials because they would rather do easier, less rigidly controlled civilian work.

And, he said, the law which would force the companies to take defense work is not properly enforced.

Rickover made the charges in a closed session of the House Banking and Currency Committee on April 11. The committee voted this week to make the testimony public but it still has not been officially released.

"It has become increasingly difficult to get industry to accept and perform orders for military equipment in a timely and economical manner," Rickover testified.

He said he has had, at times, to place orders for equipment as long as four years before it is needed because "industry would much prefer to do civilian work because they do not have to expend as much design and engineering effort on the commercial work."

Rickover is the Navy's deputy commander for nuclear propulsion of the Naval Ship Systems Command and director of the Division of Naval Reactors for the Atomic Energy Commission.

He told the committee that four times during March 1967, General Electric refused to bid on a contract for propulsion plant equipment for a new submarine considered to be an "urgent military requirement."

The Navy had determined, Rickover said, that GE was the only company which could handle the job, but GE said it did not at that time have enough engineers to do the work.

The Navy asked the Business and Defense Services Administration of the Department of Commerce in April 1967 to invoke its powers under the Defense Production Act and issue a directive to GE to "accept, produce and deliver" on the propulsion system order, Rickover testified. The act provides for such a directive when critical defense supplies and services are involved.

The BDSA reported however, Rickover said, that compliance with the priority regulations was not involved, that the problem was a technical one, and isued no directive.

"There was no other technical problem I am aware of unless the Department of Commerce considered the firm's assertion that they did not have enough engineers to do the job a technical problem," Rickover said.

"At the very same time the firm was telling the Department of Commerce that they did not have the necessary engineers, I had one of my people check the firm's telephone directory. We quickly found that engineers experienced on this type of Navy work were listed as being assigned to commercial work."

"In fairness to the firm, however, after they finally did agree to do the job for the Navy in August 1967, they quickly assigned the necessary engineering personnel."

"I am convinced this firm had sufficient qualified personnel to start this job all along."

As a result, Rickover testified, "the Navy's new submarine project was delayed by more than five months."

Familiar Scene Confronts Officer

CHICAGO (AP) — Police Lt. Emmett J. McCormor rushed to a currency exchange and arrested a man who later was charged with armed robbery.

"Everything seemed sort of familiar," McCormor said.

It should have. He arrested the same man on the same charge in the same currency exchange 20 years ago.

Rickover is the Navy's deputy commander for nuclear propulsion of the Naval Ship Systems Command and director of the Division of Naval Reactors for the Atomic Energy Commission.

He told the committee that four times during March 1967, General Electric refused to bid on a contract for propulsion plant equipment for a new submarine considered to be an "urgent military requirement." The Navy had determined, Rickover said, that GE was the only company which could handle the job, but GE said it did not at that time have enough engineers to do the work.

The Navy asked the Business and Defense Services Administration of the Department of Commerce in April 1967 to invoke its powers under the Defense Production Act and issue a directive to GE to "accept, produce and deliver" on the propulsion system order, Rickover testified. The act provides for such a directive when critical defense supplies and services are involved.

The BDSA reported however, Rickover said, that compliance with the priority regulations was not involved, that the problem was a technical one, and issued no directive.

"There was no other technical problem I am aware of unless the Department of Commerce considered the firm's assertion that they did not have enough engineers to do the job a technical problem," Rickover said.

"At the very same time the firm was telling the Department of Commerce that they did not have the necessary engineers, I had one of my people check the firm's telephone directory. We quickly found that engineers experienced on this type of Navy work were listed as being assigned to commercial work."

"In fairness to the firm, however, after they finally did agree to do the job for the Navy in August 1967, they quickly assigned the necessary engineering personnel."

"I am convinced this firm had sufficient qualified personnel to start this job all along."

As a result, Rickover testified, "the Navy's new submarine project was delayed by more than five months."

Familiar Scene Confronts Officer

CHICAGO (AP) — Police Lt. Emmett J. McMorrow rushed to a currency exchange and arrested a man who later was charged with armed robbery.

"Everything seemed sort of familiar," McMorrow said. It should have. He arrested the same man on the same charge in the same currency exchange 20 years ago.

Columbia U Bows To Student Group; Halts Gym Work

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University bowed today to a militant student protest that had disrupted campus life for three days and said it would halt construction of a controversial gymnasium until further notice.

The reversal came in an announcement by university Vice President David B. Truman before a wildly cheering crowd of 150 white and Negro onlookers gathered on the steps of Low Memorial Library.

Truman also said the entire university would be closed until Monday to permit further talks between the administration, faculty and Mayor John V. Lindsay.

The concession seemed to drain much of the tension that had built up on the Ivy League campus but student demonstrators continued their sit-in at five campus buildings.

They apparently were hoping that the university also would yield to their second principal demand, amnesty for all demonstrators.

President Grayson Kirk announced Thursday that no amnesty would be granted. He said such a concession would "destroy the whole fabric of the university community" by making a sham of the college rules.

An hour before Truman spoke, a double file of about 20 plainclothes police, some carrying nightsticks, pushed past a dozen faculty members stationed before the library door.

One woman was pushed to the ground and stepped on and a male French instructor was clubbed on the head. He was treated for a scalp cut at a hospital and released.

When the protest began Tuesday noon the demonstrators, organized by the Students for a Democratic Society, demanded that the gym construction in Harlem's nearby Morningside Park be halted and the university sever its ties with the Institute for Defense Analysis.

Later they added the demand for amnesty and agreed that the IDA issue could be negotiated if the university yielded on the other two demands.

Although the demonstrators numbered only several hundred out of the total enrollment of 27,500 they forced the university to cancel night classes Wednesday and Thursday and barred 2,500 of Columbia's 10,000 day students from classes Thursday.

The Columbia demonstrators first seized control Tuesday of Hamilton Hall, the university's main classroom building and one of about 70 on the upper Manhattan campus.

Early Wednesday they moved into President Kirk's office in Low Library, ransacking the premises. Others occupied Avery Hall and Fayerweather Hall. Early today 60 students dashed to the Mathematics Building and quickly barricaded themselves inside.

Grove of Buckeye Trees Planted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A grove of Buckeye trees was planted at the State Fairgrounds today by Gov. James A. Rhodes and a group of children observing Arbor Day, with officials of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources looking on.

Representatives of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America, and Columbus public and parochial school students took part in the ceremonies.

Tons of explosives fell from the giant bombers on three sorties over enemy bunkers, weapons positions and troop concentrations, six to eight miles west-southwest of Ben Cat, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division.

Raids in February had hit targets 10 miles north of Saigon. As fear of another attack on the capital mounted, American infantrymen combing the provinces around Saigon fought a series of small battles Thursday. Meanwhile, U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese positions in the A Shau Valley, in the northern part of the country, again and again.

There were new reports from South Vietnam's national police that the Viet Cong were bringing arms into the capital to prepare for another "terrorist" campaign against the city similar to the Tet offensive.

Police said they found 10 Soviet AK47 automatic rifles aboard a junk at Saigon's riverfront dock. They did not say if any arrests were made.

Premier Nguyen Van Loc suggested Thursday that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese might be planning another attack on Saigon to improve their military position before peace negotiations. South Vietnamese army units in the provinces around Saigon have been on 100 per cent alert all week in anticipation of a new enemy attack.

In the continuing small-scale fighting around the capital, 10 U.S. soldiers were killed and 82 wounded in actions 12 to 38 miles from Saigon.

Only 26 enemy were reported dead in the battles, and 18 of them were killed by U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers that attacked a bunker complex 25 miles northwest of the capital.

The jets were called in to help units of the 25th Infantry Division. The infantry reported the air attacks destroyed 99 enemy bunkers and damaged another 25.

While the South Vietnamese were fearful of a new attack on Saigon, U.S. intelligence officers exhibited greatest concern about the North Vietnamese concentrations in the A Shau Valley, which they said threatened the Hue area. These sources said the enemy has 15

to 20 battalions in the area and could commit them to an all-out attack on Hue "in a matter of hours."

The B52s hit weapons positions and storage areas in the valley three times Thursday night and with three more raids this morning. They also made two raids on troop concentrations 13 and 17 miles southwest of Hue, between the valley and the old imperial capital on the coast. Since the first of the month, the eight-engine bombers have flown more than 500 missions in the A Shau area.

British Strike Against Law

Want Immigration Of Colored Halted

LONDON (AP) — Thousands of London dock workers struck again today for another march on Parliament to protest colored immigrants in Britain.

The strikers shouted down a Roman Catholic priest and Protestant clergymen who were introduced by a Communist union leader in an attempt to persuade them back to work. Scores of ships in the teeming port were left idle by the 24-hour walkout.

At Tilbury, the port's deep-water section handling liners for the Far East and Australia, only 65 of the usual 2,000 men reported for work. All work stopped on 12 liners.

Up river at the Royal Group, a meeting of 2,000 longshoremen howled down leftist opponents of the walkout who led last year's four-month dock strike, from which the port is only now recovering.

Only three men voted against the strike resolution, which affirmed the dockers' support for the inflammatory speech by Enoch Powell demanding a ban on colored immigration. Powell's speech earned him immediate dismissal from the inner councils of the Conservative party and a surge of support from workers who fear the competition of colored immigrants from the West Indies, Africa and Asia.

The Williamsport Park Committee met with a good turnout of citizens Tuesday night. Planning is at a very early stage. It should again be emphasized that any action taken will be for everyone in this community in town or out. It follows therefore that your ideas and your support are needed. Everyone of you. The biggest factor, that of a site, is not a problem. We already have it and away from busy streets and highways. Twenty three acres of hilly and flat land bordering one of the finest streams in the state. The only thing left is to develop it. If this is done, the children of this town will have a place to grow up in that they will always remember and be proud of. You will have a place to enjoy also and be proud that you had a part in it. Some of the things that were suggested are as follows . . . maybe you have other ideas. A road would necessarily be first. A ball park, horseshoe courts, a tennis court, a basketball court, shelter houses, picnic tables and grills, playground equipment, toilet facilities, locations for shuffleboard and badminton, trees, shrubbery, flower beds. The beginning is here. Attend the next meeting and wade in with everyone else.

Tom Cook is trying to develop a dwarf mushroom. He sells mushrooms and says he is tired of splitting one for those people who only want two or three pounds. I hope it doesn't work though because the others are handy to get under if you're fishing down at the creek when a storm blows up.

There will be a meeting at the pavilion at 7:30 on May 1st for those boys interested in joining the Mosquito League and Little League this year. Bring your dad or mother if possible. Pony League information will probably be announced next week.

Managers this year will be Jack Betts for the Mosquito League, Roger Clark for the Little League and get this . . . Charlie Brown for the Pony League. Did you ever call anyone named Charlie Brown? I had occasion to one night this week. He had just finished moving into a new house near Grove City. The trouble started because Charlie gave me a wrong digit in his new number. I called the number and asked for Charlie Brown. I might as well have asked for George Washington or Winston Churchill from the reaction I got. Snickers mostly. Well, I then decided to turn to information. The local operator was the most pleasant and helpful operator I've ever known. She got Columbus Information and requested a number for Charlie Brown. For some reason they had male personnel on duty . . . maybe filling in temporarily. Anyway I heard him say "Oh no, that does it! This is it! I can't take anymore! Charlie Brown?" I said, "Yes, that's right. He's a baseball manager." He finally did get us a new number. We called it . . . same reaction as the first. I don't know who it was but it sure wasn't Charlie Brown. I begged the operator to let me hang up. "No," she says, "we'll get him." She did too.

Tom Weldon, Pickaway County game protector, was at the Williamsport School Thursday to give them a buckeye seedling. Each elementary school in Ohio is to receive one. This is to publicize Ohio as the Buckeye State. I thought at first each child was to get one and envisioned other states doing the same thing. Louisiana, for example, could give each kid a "Pelican" and just imagine Michiganders going home with "Wolverines". The best place to live if this spreads is Delaware known as the "Diamond State." This incidentally is why Arkansas is known as the "Wonder State". Arkansas has the only diamond mine in North America and they wonder why Delaware is the "Diamond State".

Bob Valentine asked where you get cabbage seed. I told him probably Horch's Market would have some. No, he wants to know how to do the seed company gets the seed for cabbage? Well, I pretended like I didn't hear him so he asked someone else. I listened. The poor guy tried to think while talking and got as far as "potatoes come" from South American jungles" and "you don't get chickens by planting eggs" before he gave up. If you know, call Bob and tell him. I'm scared he will ask again.

Bible College Youth Confab Underway

The campus of Circleville Bible College is swarming with young people from at least half-a-dozen states for the annual Youth Conference.

A major delegation arrived at midnight on Wednesday by chartered bus from New York. Even before registration officially began at 5 p.m. last evening, almost 150-out-of-town young people had registered. Upward of 300 are expected.

The pageant, scheduled for Saturday afternoon, was presented in a pre-conference session for the benefit of the New York delegation which must leave early on Saturday, for the return trip. The Thursday evening service was addressed by Phil Conrad, a graduate of Circleville High School and presently a junior in the Bible College.

Friday activities include chapel service, representative college classes taught by the faculty in the morning and vocational forums in the afternoon, designed to assist the high schooler in his decision regarding his life's work. The afternoon will be rounded out by a traditional softball game between the visitors and students. The evening service, held in the Ohio Street church, will feature Don Crooks, college senior, as the speaker. Following the service the Dean of the College, Rev. George Blackstone, will show the film "1967", which he photographed in color last year as development proceeded on the new campus east of town.

The conference will continue through Saturday closing with the pageant called "Coming — Ready or Not," 1 p.m.

Any high school junior, senior, or recent graduate may participate in the conference. Registration is free and includes meals and lodging, when needed.

Strike Against Racism, War Slated by Student Groups

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam says students on campuses from coast to coast will participate today in a one-day strike against war and racism.

Linda Morse, executive secretary of the committee, predicted Thursday that some schools would be completely closed. At others, she said, there would be teach-ins, rallies, picketing and antiwar skits.

In addition to student boycotts of classes, numerous college teachers have canceled classes in advance. Seminars on the Vietnam war, the draft and race problems were planned.

The committee sought to synchronize the strike by U.S. students with classroom stoppages planned in Europe, Latin America, Asia and Africa.

Today's demonstrations are part of the week of antiwar activities that will come to a climax Saturday with demonstrations planned in a score of American cities. An antiwar rally is planned in New York's Central Park, preceded by two parades to the park.

Kipp Dawson, national coordinator for the Student Mobilization tion Committee, said its leaders do not think that today's student demonstrations will interfere with President Johnson's efforts to get peace negotiations going with Hanoi.

The National Black Anti-Draft Union, a Negro organization, is sponsoring the strike along with the Student Mobilization Committee.

Several hundred students and faculty members jumped the gun at one of the campuses of the State University of New York.

They began cutting classes Thursday at the campus at Stony Brook, on Long Island. Leaders of the strike there said it would continue today. The strike was started early to accommodate students who do not have classes scheduled for today. University administration sources estimated that perhaps half of Thursday's classes were affected.

Juvenile Court Hears 8 Cases

Juvenile Court Judge Guy Cline handed down decisions Thursday on two cases involving juvenile traffic offenders and one bastardy case.

Sharon Adams 17, Williamsport, was found guilty of driving without a license. She was fined $50 and costs and her driver's permit was restricted for six months to a driver's education course at school. The fine was suspended.

Bobbie Smith, 16, Route 1, was fined $10 plus costs and had her license restricted six weeks for speeding. The fine was suspended.

A 20-year-old man was charged with being the father of an illegitimate child. He was ordered to pay for the minor girl's medical expenses, $750 in back support money and to pay $15 a week in the future for support.

The court heard five other cases which were either dismissed or transferred to another bench.

There will be a meeting at the pavilion at 7:30 on May 1st for those boys interested in joining the Mosquito League and Little League this year. Bring your dad or mother if possible. Pony League information will probably be announced next week.

Managers this year will be Jack Betts for the Mosquito League, Roger Clark for the Little League and get this . . . Charlie Brown for the Pony League. Did you ever call anyone named Charlie Brown? I had occasion to one night this week. He had just finished moving into a new house near Grove City. The trouble started because Charlie gave me a wrong digit in his new number. I called the number and asked for Charlie Brown. I might as well have asked for George Washington or Winston Churchill from the reaction I got. Snickers mostly. Well, I then decided to turn to information. The local operator was the most pleasant and helpful operator I've ever known. She got Columbus Information and requested a number for Charlie Brown. For some reason they had male personnel on duty . . . maybe filling in temporarily. Anyway I heard him say "Oh no, that does it! This is it! I can't take anymore! Charlie Brown?" I said, "Yes, that's right. He's a baseball manager." He finally did get us a new number. We called it . . . same reaction as the first. I don't know who it was but it sure wasn't Charlie Brown. I begged the operator to let me hang up. "No," she says, "we'll get him". She did too.

Tom Weldon, Pickaway County game protector, was at the Williamsport School Thursday to give them a buckeye seedling. Each elementary school in Ohio is to receive one. This is to publicize Ohio as the Buckeye State. I thought at first each child was to get one and envisioned other states doing the same thing. Louisiana, for example, could give each kid a "Pelican" and just imagine Michiganders going home with "Wolverines". The best place to live if this spreads is Delaware known as the "Diamond State." This incidentally is why Arkansas is known as the "Wonder State". Arkansas has the only diamond mine in North America and they wonder why Delaware is the "Diamond State".

Bob Valentine asked where you get cabbage seed. I told him probably Horch's Market would have some. No, he wants to know how do the seed companies get the seed for cabbage? Well, I pretended like I didn't hear him so he asked someone else. I listened. The poor guy tried to think while talking and got as far as "potatoes come from South American jungles" and "you don't get chickens by planting eggs" before he gave up. If you know, call Bob and tell him. I'm scared he will ask again.

Bible College Youth Confab Underway

The campus of Circleville Bible College is swarming with young people from at least half-a-dozen states for the annual Youth Conference.

A major delegation arrived at midnight on Wednesday by chartered bus from New York. Even before registration officially began at 5 p.m. last evening, almost 150 out-of-town young people had registered. Upward of 300 are expected.

The pageant, scheduled for Saturday afternoon, was presented in a pre-conference session for the benefit of the New York delegation which must leave early on Saturday, for the return trip. The Thursday evening service was addressed by Phil Conrad, a graduate of Circleville High School and presently a junior in the Bible College.

Friday activities include chapel service, representative college classes taught by the faculty in the morning and vocational forums in the afternoon, designed to assist the high schooler in his decision regarding his life's work. The afternoon will be rounded out by a traditional softball game between the visitors and students. The evening service, held in the Ohio Street church, will feature Don Crooks, college senior, as the speaker. Following the service the Dean of the College, Rev. George Blackstone, will show the film "1967", which he photographed in color last year as development proceeded on the new campus east of town.

The conference will continue through Saturday closing with the pageant called "Coming — Ready or Not," 1 p.m.

Any high school junior, senior, or recent graduate may participate in the conference. Registration is free and includes meals and lodging, when needed.

Strike Against Racism, War Slated by Student Groups

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam says students on campuses from coast to coast will participate today in a one-day strike against war and racism.

Linda Morse, executive secretary of the committee, predicted Thursday that some schools would be completely closed. At others, she said, there would be teach-ins, rallies, picketing and antiwar skits.

In addition to student boycotts of classes, numerous college teachers have canceled classes in advance. Seminars on the Vietnam war, the draft and race problems were planned.

The committee sought to synchronize the strike by U.S. students with classroom stoppages planned in Europe, Latin America, Asia and Africa.

Today's demonstrations are part of the week of antiwar activities that will come to a climax Saturday with demonstrations planned in a score of American cities. An antiwar rally is planned in New York's Central Park, preceded by two parades to the park.

Kipp Dawson, national coordinator for the Student Mobilization Committee, said its leaders do not think that today's student demonstrations will interfere with President Johnson's efforts to get peace negotiations going with Hanoi.

The National Black Anti-Draft Union, a Negro organization, is sponsoring the strike along with the Student Mobilization Committee.

Several hundred students and faculty members jumped the gun at one of the campuses of the State University of New York.

They began cutting classes Thursday at the campus at Stony Brook, on Long Island. Leaders of the strike there said it would continue today. The strike was started early to accommodate students who do not have classes scheduled for today. University administration sources estimated that perhaps half of Thursday's classes were affected.

Juvenile Court Hears 8 Cases

Bobbie Smith, 16, Route 1, was fined $10 plus costs and had her license restricted six weeks for speeding. The fine was suspended.

A 20-year-old man was charged with being the father of an illegitimate child. He was ordered to pay for the minor girl's medical expenses, $750 in back support money and to pay $15 a week in the future for support.

The court heard five other cases which were either dismissed or transferred to another bench.

Watts was a member of the Trinity Lutheran Church, a life member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and of the Knights of Pythias Lodge.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Maud Shaw Watts.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Wilbur Maiden, 534 E. Mound St., and Mrs. Burnell Rundels, Bexley; five grandchildren, 22 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Catholic Schools Face Crisis

By GARVEN HUDGINS
AP Education Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Soaring costs and a pressing shortage of trained personnel threaten the existence of Catholic elementary and secondary education in America.

Parochial schools are closing in what Catholic educators regard as alarming numbers. Teacher nuns, the mainstays of Catholic elementary and secondary education, are in such short supply that authorities have been forced to turn to lay teachers, who require higher salaries.

The Rev. C. Albert Koob, executive secretary of the National Catholic Education Association, says the major problem facing Catholic education in the United States is maintaining its existence.

"The solution," he said, "will have to be a happy combination of our needs and resources." Parochial schools, Father Koob says, must merge efforts for better educational programs and more effective use of manpower.

This will mean a partial withdrawal from plush suburban areas to the inner city, where many Catholic educators believe parochial schools can be of most service.

The same steeply mounting costs which have bedeviled all educational institutions over the past three years have exacerbated the financial crisis in Catholic education.

The tremendous influx of lay teachers hired to offset the shortage of teaching nuns and of seminary graduates has further aggravated the problem.

"If the religious life doesn't appeal to as many people as it did before," Father Koob said, "what are you going to do about it? We have to try and meet the higher price of having lay teachers."

Catholic educators increasingly argue that a connection between Catholic education and the public school is necessary if the Church is to maintain a meaningful education mission.

The sentiment is based partly on the need for cash and partly on an ecumenical spirit growing out of the recent Vatican Council. Either way, it means tax money for Catholic students, something Catholic educators believe will be possible if the federal government eventually makes massive, block grants to states for public education.

The shortage of teaching personnel poses a special problem for Catholic education.

Resentful of authority and, in some cases, of the requirement for celibacy, Catholic students no longer are attracted to the priesthood in the numbers they once were.

Vocations to the priesthood dropped about 5 per cent last year and are expected to decline even further, according to Christian Herald. A decade ago, 37 per cent of first-year seminary entrants dropped out by the end of their fourth year. By 1963, the last year for which accurate statistics are available, the figure had risen to 44 per cent. Today the figure is widely believed to hover around 50 per cent.

Minor Monkey Wrenches In Daylight Saving Time

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY
Associated Press Writer

All but two of the 50 states will switch to Daylight Saving Time Sunday.

But, an Associated Press survey also shows, some minor monkey wrenches have been tossed into the clockwork in a few areas.

The Uniform Time Act, adopted by Congress in 1966, provided that — starting in 1967 — all states will observe DST from 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in April until 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in October — except that any state may exempt itself by adopting a state law.

Hawaii and Arizona have exempted themselves. In the other states clocks generally will be pushed ahead an hour.

The U.S. Department of Transportation, which oversees the act, gave Indiana permission to bring its timepieces into harmony in this way: all the state's counties, with the exception of six around Chicago and six around Evansville, Ind., on the western side of Indiana, can remain on Eastern Standard Time. The 12 exempted counties can move their clocks up from Central Standard to Central Daylight Time. This will place them on the same time as the rest of the state.

Grant Announced

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $197,650 grant for a job-development program in Cleveland, Ohio, was announced Thursday by the Economic Development Administration. The program is aimed at helping the hard-core unemployed, especially in the areas of Hough, Glenville, Central Kinsman and the near West Side. The city is putting up $67,500.

Catholic Schools Face Crisis

By GARVEN HUDGINS
AP Education Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Soaring costs and a pressing shortage of trained personnel threaten the existence of Catholic elementary and secondary education in America.

Parochial schools are closing in what Catholic educators regard as alarming numbers. Teacher nuns, the mainstays of Catholic elementary and secondary education, are in such short supply that authorities have been forced to turn to lay teachers, who require higher salaries.

The Rev. C. Albert Koob, executive secretary of the National Catholic Education Association, says the major problem facing Catholic education in the United States is maintaining its existence.

"The solution," he said, "will have to be a happy combination of our needs and resources."

Parochial schools, Father Koob says, must merge efforts for better educational programs and more effective use of manpower.

This will mean a partial withdrawal from plush suburban areas to the inner city, where many Catholic educators believe parochial schools can be of most service.

The same steeply mounting costs which have bedeviled all educational institutions over the past three years have exacerbated the financial crisis in Catholic education.

The tremendous influx of lay teachers hired to offset the shortage of teaching nuns and of seminary graduates has further aggravated the problem.

"If the religious life doesn't appeal to as many people as it did before," Father Koob said, "what are you going to do about it? We have to try and meet the higher price of having lay teachers."

Catholic educators increasingly argue that a connection between Catholic education and the public school is necessary if the Church is to maintain a meaningful education mission.

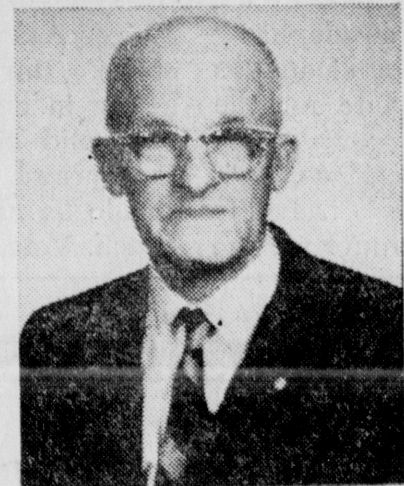

The sentiment is based partly on the need for cash and partly on an ecumenical spirit growing out of the recent Vatican Council. Either way, it means tax money for Catholic students, something Catholic educators believe will be possible if the federal government eventually makes massive, block grants to states for public education.

The shortage of teaching personnel poses a special problem for Catholic education. Resentful of authority and, in some cases, of the requirement for celibacy, Catholic students no longer are attracted to the priesthood in the numbers they once were.

Vocations to the priesthood dropped about 5 per cent last year and are expected to decline even further, according to Christian Herald. A decade ago, 37 per cent of first-year seminary entrants dropped out by the end of their fourth year. By 1963, the last year for which accurate statistics are available, the figure had risen to 44 per cent. Today the figure is widely believed to hover around 50 per cent.

Minor Monkey Wrenches In Daylight Saving Time

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY
Associated Press Writer
All but two of the 50 states will switch to Daylight Saving Time Sunday.

But, an Associated Press survey also shows, some minor monkey wrenches have been tossed into the clockwork in a few areas.

The Uniform Time Act, adopted by Congress in 1966, provided that — starting in 1967 — all states will observe DST from 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in April until 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in October — except that any state may exempt itself by adopting a state law.

Hawaii and Arizona have exempted themselves.

In the other states clocks generally will be pushed ahead an hour.

The U.S. Department of Transportation, which oversees the act, gave Indiana permission to bring its timepieces into harmony in this way: all the state's counties, with the exception of six around Chicago and six around Evansville, Ind., on the western side of Indiana, can remain on Eastern Standard Time. The 12 exempted counties can move their clocks up from Central Standard to Central Daylight Time. This will place them on the same time as the rest of the state.

The U.S. Department of Transportation placed all of Michigan's Upper Peninsula in the Central time zone. But four counties in the eastern half of the peninsula — Luce, Mackinac, Chippewa and Alger — have remained on Eastern time. They will go on EDT Sunday.

The program is aimed at helping the hard-core unemployed, especially in the areas of Hough, Glenville, Central Kinsman and the near West Side. The city is putting up $67,500.

High Court Needs Ammer

Ohio's Fourth District Court of Appeals needs a judge of integrity with experience in order to serve well the 15-county area.

A candidate with all these important qualifications is William Ammer of Pickaway County Common Pleas Court. Judge Ammer should be considered by both Democrats and Republicans as the most qualified candidate for the Court of Appeals.

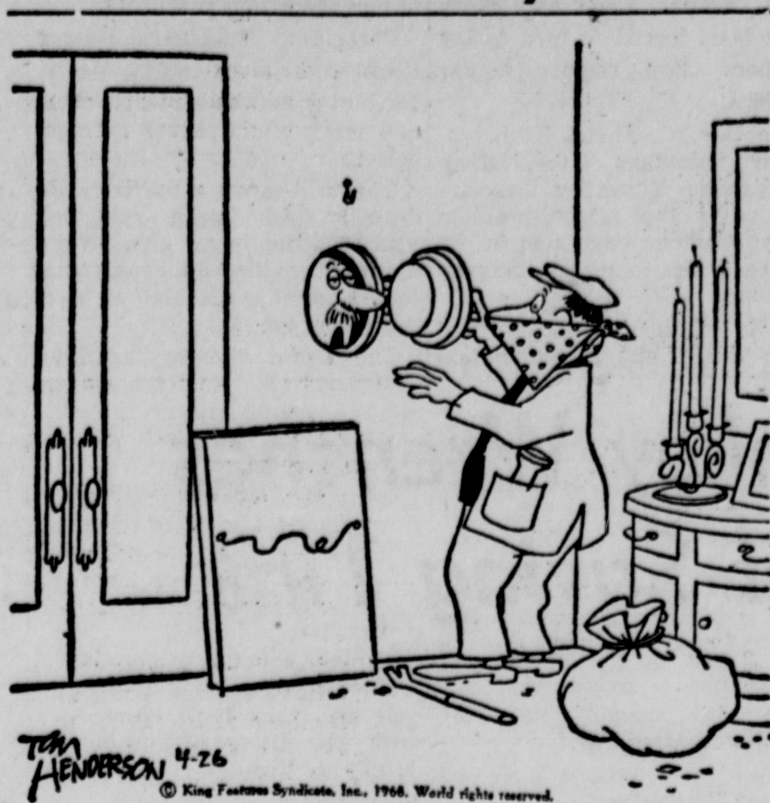

Realizing his vast experience, efficiency and ability, The Circleville Herald endorses Judge Ammer for the nomination as a candidate for the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

He has served on the bench here for 11 years and has become known as a "leader among judges." He is currently president of the Ohio Common Pleas Judges Assn., has served as chairman of Ohio Bar Assn. committees and is active in civic and fraternal affairs.

A solid citizen, an experienced attorney and a "leader among judges" should be named to the appeals court bench. Vote for Ammer.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THIS UNSIGNED letter turned up in the Washington Post Office: "I am the daughter of a Congressman. Because of his fight against stupid appropriations in his own state, he won't be a Congressman any more. He got clobbered. Please send me a new daddy."

A municipal court judge fined a blind man ten dollars for walking on a park lawn, and the man's seeing eye dog promptly bit the judge. He then took a bite out of a reporter standing nearby.

The irate reporter said, "I can understand why your dog took a nip out of the judge, but why did he have to bite me, too?" The blind man explained, "To take the taste out of his mouth."

An overnight guest at a distinctly second-rate motel had already registered a number of complaints. When he popped up at the desk again, the night clerk snapped, "Well, what's biting you now?" The guest drew himself up to his full five feet four and replied, "That's exactly what I want to know."

Have you heard about the old prospector, stranded in the wasteland, who, in his desperate search for water, happened on a dry stream bed, and then came upon another, only to find that one dry, too? "This," he lamented bitterly, "is what I call going from one ex-stream to another."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is aplastic anemia another name for the anemia caused by a deficiency in iron? There are perhaps 30 or 40 different kinds of anemia. The exact diagnosis of any type of anemia can only be made by the study of the blood. Specialists in this field are called hematologists and have spent many concentrated years in the study of this highly technical field of medicine.

Iron deficiency anemia and aplastic anemia are two totally different conditions. The first is usually due to malnutrition and deficiency of iron and other substances in the blood.

Aplastic anemia is a far more serious condition which is caused by the inadequate production of red blood cells in the bone marrow and the spleen, two of the most important manufacturers of blood cells. Aplastic anemia is the end result of inadequate blood formation, usually because of the use of toxic drugs. Some chemical agents and even insecticides may produce aplastic anemia in highly sensitive people.

Over exposure to rays, radioactive phosphorus, radium and atomic explosions, may leave people with this serious of American politics.

Everyone knows that the TV debates helped John F. Kennedy win by an eyelash over Richard Nixon in 1960. But it was not until this year that TV began to play havoc in the primaries, which have hitherto been regarded as the personal property of the get-out-to-vote machine leader. If, from here on, in the candidate with the brightest TV presence and the money to buy good spot exposure can pull the housewives out of the kitchen and into the primary voting booths, traditional organization isn't going to mean much.

Professor McLuhan has said that TV makes the world over again into a magnified version of the tribal village. It necessarily subordinates reason and reflection to motion. The tribal leader with the ability to get his "essence" across in quick takes becomes more important than the behind-the-scenes man or the man of sustained logic.

I hate to think that Marshall McLuhan is right. I don't want to see the world become a huge tribal village. But Indiana, not my personal feelings, may very possibly tell the tale.

The effect of all these dangerous substances is to depress blood formation. The white blood cells are also markedly reduced and leave the person highly susceptible to severe infection. The red blood cells carry vital oxygen to all parts of the body. The white blood cells are the standing army that beats off invaders.

To guess that one has any form of anemia because of tiredness or listlessness is only fraught with unnecessary anxiety. There is one and only one way to find out if anemia is present and that is by a complete blood study.

I cannot resist giving the advice that it is a sheer waste of hard earned money to buy "special" and expensive food supplements when there is not foundation that anemia is present.

What is the meaning of eclampsia that happens during pregnancy?

Eclampsia is a rare complication of pregnancy. The exact cause is not truly known. It usually occurs during the late period of pregnancy and is readily recognized by the doctor who is taking care of the patient.

One of the special reasons why every pregnant person should be followed from early pregnancy to the birth of a child is that any complications can thus be recognized very early.

To give any of the symptoms of eclampsia would irresponsibly throw millions of people into a panic because "similar symptoms" can be fear-producing and even terrifying. Eclampsia happens so rarely that it is distinctly illogical for pregnant women to give a second thought to the possibility that it may occur. The chances are slight and certainly the danger is markedly lessened when under the constant supervision of the physician.

PBL Money Bill Sent to Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent President Johnson a measure authorizing use of $9 million to help launch Public Broadcasting Corp., the non-commercial television-radio project.

The House took final congressional action on the bill, passing it Wednesday 241 to 133.

The 15 corporation members, although already appointed, won't fully function until the fiscal year starting July 1.

The World Today

By WALTER R. MEARS (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic governors have affirmed what their Republican counterparts had been proving for 18 months: Apparent political power and the ability to use it are two different things.

The 26 Republican governors and the 24 Democrats have been unable to create consensus among themselves on a presidential nominee for their respective parties.

The Democrats talked about it in St. Louis April 15 and got nowhere. Republicans chose more fashionable retreats for their disagreement—White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Jackson Hole, Wyo., Palm Beach, Fla.

There are individual commitments to candidates in each party, but no one has welded a governors' bloc of major benefit to a single candidate.

It's possible many governors can't exercise total control over their national convention delegates.

Democrat Harold Hughes of Iowa acknowledged this difficulty. Hughes, a Senate candidate, said people supporting his candidacy include Democrats backing all three top contenders for the presidential nomination, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

A McCarthy agent put it more succinctly: "If Hughes comes out for Bobby our kids in Iowa will go after him."

Hughes evidently is not alone in that situation. His Democratic gubernatorial colleagues, feeling the pressure for presidential commitments and hoping to ease it, were generally delighted to adopt a statement in St. Louis promising decisions of conscience on the White House contest—but not right now.

Similarly, Republican governors in June 1967 advocated that uncommitted delegations be sent to the GOP convention.

Texas Gov. John B. Connally and Calvin L. Rampton of Utah, both Johnson allies, were two of the men who asked that the Democratic governors meet in St. Louis earlier this month.

Behind their request, it appeared, was a concern that with President Johnson out of the race, there might be a gubernatorial rush to the Kennedy camp. Administration loyalists wanted to slow things down and insure that Humphrey support was not foreclosed even before he announced his candidacy.

But there was no rush to Kennedy. A small minority of the 26 Republican governors has been trying to line up presidential commitments among their colleagues almost since 1964, with an identical lack of success.

Like the Democrats, the Republican governors have consistently denied they are out to stop anybody in the presidential race. In their case, anybody means Richard M. Nixon.

So far, the governors have been true to their statement. They haven't slowed down the Nixon drive, and they haven't started one for anybody else.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The script for a two-hour movie only runs to about 140 pages.

Held in the hand and carelessly thumbing through, it doesn't look very impressive. It isn't even printed in living color.

But it can literally be worth thousands of times its weight in gold. For in the film industry a script is something like a blueprint of Ft. Knox, since the outcome of a multimillion-dollar production may depend upon whether the words upon its pages have impact.

"You have to be honest in picture making for a change," said Peter Stone, "and that is confusing to a lot of people who have never tried to be honest."

One of the newer word wizards in the industry, Peter scored big with his first film script, "Charade," and he and cowriter Frank Tarloff won Oscars with a second try, "Father Goose."

Stone teamed up with Tarloff again to write "The Secret War of Harry Frigg," and since then he has battled out "Sweet Charity" and "Skin Game."

For a fellow only 38 that's setting a fast pace.

Practically born into the industry—he's the son of the late Jack Stone, a top producer-writer—Peter took a master's degree at Yale, then lived 10 years in France while he served his apprenticeship grinding out scores of television tales. He won an Emmy Award for his work on "The Defender" series, and has written a couple of Broadway musicals.

Assassin Wounds Algerian Leader

ALGIERS (AP) — President Houari Boumedienne was slightly injured Thursday when an assassin raked his car with machine-gun fire, the Algeria Press Agency said.

Boumedienne was cut on the face by flying glass. His car had just left the government palace following a Cabinet meeting. His chauffeur was reported wounded.

After the incident, a guard was thrown around the palace. There was no immediate word on the fate of the gunman.

Seek War Chest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers announced today a drive to raise a $1 million war chest to help fight court injunctions, fines and jail terms against striking teachers.

Stone spends up to six months plotting a script, only six weeks composing the dialogue, and prefers to do his actual writing away from Hollywood.

"There's an old saying about writers—no one ever got better after he went to Hollywood, so you'd better be good before you go there. I think it's true."

"Hollywood isn't a bad place, but the people who go there are trying to escape reality. That's why the whole country seems to be flocking there—to get away from cold weather, slums, and other realities."

"But a writer can't afford to do that. He has to keep in touch with reality. If he gets away from reality, he's dead."

A man with positive and sometimes controversial ideas about his medium, Peter believes the film business has changed radically. "You can still make salami pictures that get by," he admitted. "But stars alone don't guarantee success anymore, nor does subject matter alone."

"The only thing that connects is when you strike a chord of recognition in the 16 to 25-year age group—not the bobby soxers or the dropouts but the young people who don't watch television because they are more interested in life, who are committed and aware."

Peter has a higher opinion of European than most American directors.

"Too many of our directors are only one-dimensional craftsmen. They are too intrigued with the camera alone. Very few want to spend time working with the writer on the script, because it cuts down on the number of films they can make."

The executive committee of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau approved plans for the organization of a cooperative grain elevator in Circleville. The organization was to be known as the Pickaway Grain Co., with principal headquarters at Circleville.

Through the efforts of Senator Chappellear an appropriation of $1,500 was granted for the treatment, care and preservation of Logan Elm by the Ohio legislature. An additional $500 was granted for the purchase of additional land adjacent to the park.

Byron Eby, formerly of Circleville, and father of Ed Eby, proprietor of the American Hotel, celebrated his 83rd birthday at his home in Kingston.

A surprise party honored Emerson Wright on his 18th birthday. Victrola music and games were enjoyed by the guest of honor and his host of friends.

County commissioners did not award a contract for the building of a bridge over Hargus Creek on N. Court St. The lowest received bid was almost $4,500 above the estimate.

Circleville had its first exclusive men's clothing store poses.

when the Economy Store opened at 132 W. Main St.

City council granted permission to the state highway department to erect small highway number signs through the city on the condition the placing and continuance of same be under the direction of the director of public service.

A musical program was presented by Glenn Ellison and company at Memorial Hall. Known internationally for his rendering of Scotch songs, Mr. Ellison sang, accompanied by his own voice on an Edison phonograph. Miss Sibyl Sanderson Fagan, whistler, also entertained with several artistic bird calls. A violinist and a young and competent pianist completed the fine program for a small but appreciative audience.

A list of high school graduates in Pickaway County was published. Circleville's graduating class numbered 50. The 11 township schools combined had 100 graduating seniors.

The last bond of indebtedness upon their centralized school building was paid by Jackson Twp. Board of Education. This was the first board of education in the county to retire all its bonds issued for building purchase.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — If you were to purchase all the shares of American Telephone, which has assets of $46.8 billion, and International Business Machines, which has assets of $5.6 billion, for which would you pay the most?

Since you suspect the answer isn't the seemingly obvious one, here are the straight facts, based on prices early this week: for IBM you would pay $36.7 billion, for AT&T $27.06 billion.

Stated another way, for a company with one-eighth the assets of AT&T you would pay between $9 billion and $10 billion more, an amount that would help solve the U.S. Treasury's problems.

The point is this: in the stock market it isn't how big you are that counts; it's how fast you're growing.

Naturally the situation is completely hypothetical. Even if you had that kind of cash you wouldn't be able to make such huge purchases. When word got out that you were in the market those prices would soar.

But this paradox in prices points up some of the psychology involved in today's stock market. What seems all important in the market, especially in the past few years, is a company's growth possibilities.

IBM is a swiftly growing outfit. Its earnings growth is at a rate of more than 14 per cent a year. Last year its profits rose $125 million to $651.5 million. With such a swift growth rate, buyers fight for a piece of the action.

As a result, a price-earnings ratio of about 50 is commonly placed on IBM shares. That means it sells for 40, 50 or 60 times its per share earnings which in 1967 were $11.61. Its price at the opening Tuesday was $655.

AT&T once was in enormous demand also, but now it is a huge operation and growing steadily but slowly in comparison with some of the glamor companies. Its price-earnings ratio, therefore, is around 12 or 13. It sold for $50 this week.

Although in theory the purchasers of stock always are taking risks with their futures, this attitude becomes more pronounced during periods of sustained economic expansion, such as this nation has had for seven years.

During this time there also has been an outburst of new technology, the result of billions poured into research and development in the 1950s. Taking commercial advantage of these new products and methods, some companies have been transformed from small private enterprises into enormous, publicly held corporations.

Polaroid Corp. is often cited as an example of this. In 1955, when it already was well on its way, the photograph products company reported profits of $2.4 million. In 1967 profits were 24 times greater at $57.4 million.

Nevertheless, scores of very successful companies are larger than Polaroid by almost any measure — sales, number of employees, assets.

Based on share value, the most valuable firms today are IBM, AT&T, General Motors, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Eastman Kodak, Texaco, Sears, General Electric, Gulf and Du Pont.

Indiana Primary Stakes

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The first reports from Indiana were that Governor Roger Branigin would have things well in hand in his battle for delegates in the forthcoming May 7, Presidential primary.

The county and district chairmen were lining up behind him — which meant that the "organization" was set. Surely the "invaders" — Bobby

Kennedy and Gene McCarthy — would knock at the Hoosier doors in vain.

So one would like to think. But an evening spent with Indiana editors at the Falls Church, Va., home of Senator Vance Hartke during newspaper editors' "week" in Washington was enough to scare the wits out of anybody who hopes to keep Bobby Kennedy from making it all the way to the White House.

Talking among themselves on a "not for attribution" basis, the anti-Kennedy editors in the group revealed various degrees of shock at the prospect that traditional "organization" support — and in politically sophisticated Indiana, of all places — will mean little or nothing on primary day. If Bobby Kennedy keeps going the way he has begun, he could win in Indiana, give McCarthy a mortal whack, and go on to further triumphs in Oregon and California.

Of course, the battle for Indiana had not really been joined when Senator Hartke polled the visiting editors. Bobby had been out there, laying his charisma, newly chastened forelock and all, on the line for the TV spectators, and his money had been pouring into the state.

But McCarthy had not yet begun to fight. And Branigin hadn't really gotten into it to rouse the grass roots against the "outsiders." Though Kennedy, despite his professional pose as the underdog, had been winning the early private polls, he still had a long way to go.

Since Bobby Kennedy is feared and distrusted by many, ecstatically revered by others, the tendency is to think of Indiana in terms of its importance to the Kennedy saga. As West Virginia was to Jack Kennedy, so Indiana could be to Bobby.

But there is more at stake in this year's Indiana primary than the Kennedy future. This could be the time and the place where the so-called new politics gets its first really definitive test.

When McCarthy won his moral victory in New Hampshire without machine organization, the old-line politics began to tremble just a bit in their boots. To think that a bunch of vacationing or dropout school kids could come into a state and turn it upside down for a relatively unknown senator was too much for the professionals to swallow.

It wasn't so bad when McCarthy won Wisconsin (after all, as a Minnesota Senator he was campaigning as a next-door neighbor), but when the McCarthy amateurs beat the machine in several communities right in Democratic National Chairman John Bailey's home state of Connecticut the warning signals were flying again. Maybe the day of machine politics is done.

If so, we could find out in Indiana. If Governor Branigin, with 99 out of 100 among the Democratic leaders for him, can't beat the TV tube, a Canadian professor named Marshall McLuhan, author of "The Medium Is the Message" (and please spell it "message" even though it is supposed to mean "message" as well), will become the new patron saint HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'm not a do-gooder," said Gregory Peck with emphasis. "It embarrasses me to be classified as humanitarian. I simply take part in the activities that I am interested in."

The actor was commenting on his receipt of the Motion Picture Academy's Jean Herscholt Award for humanitarian service. While he felt honored, he sought to escape any do-good connotation. That is an image he does not seek.

Peck had just been interviewed on the set of his new Western, "The Stalking Moon," by an Argentine correspondent who asked him: "Why do so many of your pictures have a social message?"

"I had to tell her," Peck reported afterward, "that of the 40 pictures I have made, only 'Gentlemen's Agreement,' 'To Kill a Mockingbird,' and possibly 'On the Beach' carried any kind of special message. The rest were Westerns, comedies, war pictures and straight adventure stories like 'The Guns of Navarone.'"

Despite his disclaimers, Peck in recent years has devoted an uncommon amount of time and energy to causes for which he feels concern.

Among them: The Motion Picture Relief Fund. He has been chairman of the drive to raise $15 million in 15 years to support the industry's ill and aged. Six million has been collected in the first two years.

The American Cancer Society. Two years ago he was chairman of the annual fund drive and spent four months touring 28 cities to raise $50 million.

The National Endowment for the Arts. Peck served a two-year term on the committee aimed at spreading culture through the nation.

The Inner City Repertory Theater. He has been a guiding force in the Los Angeles stage company which offers excellent productions to school children and adult patrons.

Peck also serves on the executive council of the Los Angeles Music Center, as vice president of the San Diego County Theater Arts Council, and as an adviser to the new American Film Institute, which attempts to preserve the past and promote the future of film in this country. All this plus his presidency of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

A public conscience is nothing new to Greg Peck.

"In 1948, I stood up in Gilmore Stadium (in Los Angeles) and spoke out for Harry Truman at a time when nobody thought he had a chance to win," he recalled. He has since lent his support to other Democratic candidates and causes, but he admitted, "I don't think such support does a damn bit of good."

With a wry smile he pointed out that he supported Pierre Salinger in his unsuccessful bid for the Senate against George Murphy. "I will support the Democratic nominee for president," Peck said, "but I have decided that it is a mistake to get involved in primaries."

That led to the inevitable question: Will he follow Murphy and Ronald Reagan into active politics? Before the question could be posed, Peck replied with a firm: "No." His reason: "It has never interested me."

High Court Needs Ammer

Ohio's Fourth District Court of Appeals needs a judge of integrity with experience in order to serve well the 15-county area.

A candidate with all these important qualifications is William Ammer of Pickaway County Common Pleas Court. Judge Ammer should be considered by both Democrats and Republicans as the most qualified candidate for the Court of Appeals.

Realizing his vast experience, efficiency and ability, The Circleville Herald endorses Judge Ammer for the nomination as a candidate for the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

He has served on the bench here for 11 years and has become known as a "leader among judges." He is currently president of the Ohio Common Pleas Judges Assn., has served as chairman of Ohio Bar Assn. committees and is active in civic and fraternal affairs.

A solid citizen, an experienced attorney and a "leader among judges" should be named to the appeals court bench. Vote for Ammer.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — If you were to purchase all the shares of American Telephone, which has assets of $46.8 billion, and International Business Machines, which has assets of $5.6 billion, for which would you pay the most?

Since you suspect the answer isn't the seemingly obvious one, here are the straight facts, based on prices early this week: for IBM you would pay $36.7 billion, for AT&T $27.06 billion.

Stated another way, for a company with one-eighth the assets of AT&T you would pay between $9 billion and $10 billion more, an amount that would help solve the U.S. Treasury's problems.

The point is this: in the stock market it isn't how big you are that counts; it's how fast you're growing. Naturally the situation is completely hypothetical. Even if you had that kind of cash you wouldn't be able to make such huge purchases. When word got out that you were in the market those prices would soar.

But this paradox in prices points up some of the psychology involved in today's stock market. What seems all important in the past few years, is a company's growth possibilities.

IBM is a swiftly growing outfit. Its earnings growth is at a rate of more than 14 per cent a year. Last year its profits rose $125 million to $651.5 million. With such a swift growth rate, buyers fight for a piece of the action.

As a result, a price-earnings ratio of about 50 is commonly placed on IBM shares. That means it sells for 40, 50 or 60 times its per share earnings which in 1967 were $11.61. Its price at the opening Tuesday was $655.

AT&T once was in enormous demand also, but now it is a huge operation and growing steadily but slowly in comparison with some of the glamor companies. Its price-earnings ratio, therefore, is around 12 or 13. It sold for $50 this week.

Although in theory the purchasers of stock always are taking risks with their futures, this attitude becomes more pronounced during periods of sustained economic expansion, such as this nation has had for seven years.

During this time there also has been an outburst of new technology, the result of billions poured into research and development in the 1950s. Taking commercial advantage of these new products and methods, some companies have been transformed from small private enterprises into enormous, publicly held corporations.

Polaroid Corp. is often cited as an example of this. In 1955, when it already was well on its way, the photographic products company reported profits of $2.4 million. In 1967 profits were 24 times greater at $57.4 million.

Nevertheless, scores of very successful companies are larger than Polaroid by almost any measure — sales, number of employees, assets.

Based on share value, the most valuable firms today are IBM, AT&T, General Motors, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Eastman Kodak, Texaco, Sears, General Electric, Gulf and Du Pont.

Indiana Primary Stakes

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
The first reports from Indiana were that Governor Roger Branigan would have things well in hand in his battle for delegates in the forthcoming May 7, Presidential primary.

The county and district chairmen were lining up behind him — which meant that the "organization" was set. Surely the "invaders" — Bobby

Kennedy and Gene McCarthy — would knock at the Hoosier doors in vain.

So one would like to think. But an evening spent with Indiana editors at the Falls Church, Va., home of Senator Vance Hartke during newspaper editors' "week" in Washington was enough to scare the wits out of anybody who hopes to keep Bobby Kennedy from making it all the way to the White House.

Talking among themselves on a "not for attribution" basis, the anti-Kennedy editors in the group revealed various degrees of shock at the prospect that traditional "organization" support — and in politically sophisticated Indiana, of all places — will mean little or nothing on primary day. If Bobby Kennedy keeps going the way he has begun, he could win in Indiana, give McCarthy a mortal whack, and go on to further triumphs in Oregon and California.

Of course, the battle for Indiana had not really been joined when Senator Hartke polled the visiting editors. Bobby had been out there, laying his charisma, newly chastened forelock and all, on the line for the TV spectators, and his money had been pouring into the state.

But McCarthy had not yet begun to fight. And Branigan hadn't really gotten into it to rouse the grass roots against the "outsiders." Though Kennedy, despite his professional pose as the underdog, had been winning the early private polls, he still had a long way to go.

Since Bobby Kennedy is feared and distrusted by many, ecstatically revered by others, the tendency is to think of Indiana in terms of its importance to the Kennedy saga. As West Virginia was to Jack Kennedy, so Indiana could be to Bobby.

But there is more at stake in this year's Indiana primary than the Kennedy future. This could be the time and the place where the so-called new politics gets its first really definitive test.

When McCarthy won his moral victory in New Hampshire without machine organization, the old-line politics began to tremble just a bit in their boots. To think that a bunch of vacationing or dropout school kids could come into a state and turn it upside down for a relatively unknown senator was too much for the professionals to swallow.

It wasn't so bad when McCarthy won Wisconsin (after all, as a Minnesota Senator he was campaigning as a next-door neighbor), but when the McCarthy amateurs beat the machine in several communities right in Democratic National Chairman John Bailey's home state of Connecticut the warning signals were flying again. Maybe the day of machine politics is done.

If so, we could find out in Indiana. If Governor Branigan, with 99 out of 100 among the Democratic leaders for him, can't beat the TV tube, a Canadian professor named Marshall McLuhan, author of "The Medium Is the Message" (and please spell it "message" even though it is supposed to mean "message" as well), will become the new patron saint

By BENNETT CERF

THIS UNSIGNED letter turned up in the Washington Post Office: "I am the daughter of a Congressman. Because of his fight against stupid appropriations in his own state, he won't be a Congressman any more. He got clobbered. Please send me a new daddy."

A municipal court judge fined a blind man ten dollars for walking on a park lawn, and the man's seeing eye dog promptly bit the judge. He then took a bite out of a reporter standing nearby.

The irate reporter said, "I can understand why your dog took a nip out of the judge, but why did he have to bite me, too?" The blind man explained, "To take the taste out of his mouth."

An overnight guest at a distinctly second-rate motel had already registered a number of complaints. When he popped up at the desk again, the night clerk snapped, "Well, what's biting you now?" The guest drew himself up to his full five feet four and replied, "That's exactly what I want to know."

Have you heard about the old prospector, stranded in the wasteland, who, in his desperate search for water, happened on a dry stream bed, and then came upon another, only to find that one dry, too? "This," he lamented bitterly, "is what I call going from one ex-stream to another."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is aplastic anemia another name for the anemia caused by a deficiency in iron? There are perhaps 30 or 40 different kinds of anemia. The exact diagnosis of any type of anemia can only be made by the study of the blood. Specialists in this field are called hematologists and have spent many concentrated years in the study of this highly technical field of medicine.

Iron deficiency anemia and aplastic anemia are two totally different conditions. The first is usually due to malnutrition and deficiency of iron and other substances in the blood.

Aplastic anemia is a far more serious condition which is caused by the inadequate production of red blood cells in the body's bone marrow and the spleen, two of the most important manufacturers of blood cells. Aplastic anemia is the end result of inadequate blood formation, usually because of the use of toxic drugs. Some chemical agents and even insecticides may produce aplastic anemia in highly sensitive people.

Over exposure to rays, radioactive phosphorus, radium and atomic explosions, may leave people with this serious disorder. The effect of all these dangerous substances is to depress blood formation. The white blood cells are also markedly reduced and leave the person highly susceptible to severe infection. The red blood cells carry vital oxygen to all parts of the body. The white blood cells are the standing army that beats off invaders.

To guess that one has any form of anemia because of tiredness or listlessness is only fraught with unnecessary anxiety. There is one and only one way to find out if anemia is present and that is by a complete blood study.

I cannot resist giving the advice that it is a sheer waste of hard earned money to buy "special" and expensive food supplements when there is not foundation that anemia is present.

What is the meaning of eclampsia that happens during pregnancy?

Eclampsia is a rare complication of pregnancy. The exact cause is not truly known. It usually occurs during the late period of pregnancy and is readily recognized by the doctor who is taking care of the patient.

One of the special reasons why every pregnant person should be followed from early pregnancy to the birth of a child is that any complications can be recognized very early.

To give any of the symptoms of eclampsia would irresponsibly throw millions of people into a panic because "similar symptoms" can be fear-producing and even terrifying. Eclampsia happens so rarely that it is distinctly illogical for pregnant women to give a second thought to the possibility that it may occur. The chances are slight and certainly the danger is markedly lessened when under the constant supervision of the physician.

PBL Money Bill

Sent to Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent President Johnson a measure authorizing use of $9 million to help launch Public Broadcasting Corp., the non-commercial television-radio project.

The House took final congressional action on the bill, passing it Wednesday 241 to 133.

The 15 corporation members, although already appointed, won't fully function until the fiscal year starting July 1.

The World Today

By WALTER R. MEARS (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic governors have affirmed what their Republican counterparts had been proving for 18 months: Apparent political power and the ability to use it are two different things.

The 26 Republican governors and the 24 Democrats have been unable to create consensus among themselves on a presidential nominee for their respective parties.

The Democrats talked about it in St. Louis April 15 and got nowhere. Republicans chose more fashionable retreats for their disagreement—White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Jackson Hole, Wyo., Palm Beach, Fla.

There are individual commitments to candidates in each party, but no one has welded a governors' bloc of major benefit to a single candidate.

It's possible many governors can't exercise total control over their national convention delegates.

Democrat Harold Hughes of Iowa acknowledged this difficulty. Hughes, a Senate candidate, said people supporting his candidacy include Democrats backing all three top contenders for the presidential nomination, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

A McCarthy agent put it more succinctly: "If Hughes comes out for Bobby our kids in Iowa will go after him."

Hughes evidently is not alone in that situation. His Democratic gubernatorial colleagues, feeling the pressure for presidential commitments and hoping to ease it, were generally delighted to adopt a statement in St. Louis promising decisions of conscience on the White House contest—but not right now.

Similarly, Republican governors in June 1967 advocated that uncommitted delegations be sent to the GOP convention.

Texas Gov. John B. Connally and Calvin L. Rampton of Utah, both Johnson allies, were two of the men who asked that the Democratic governors meet in St. Louis earlier this month.

Behind their request, it appeared, was a concern that with President Johnson out of the race, there might be a gubernatorial rush to the Kennedy camp. Administration loyalists wanted to slow things down and insure that Humphrey support was not foreclosed even before he announced his candidacy.

But there was no rush to Kennedy.

A small minority of the 26 Republican governors has been trying to line up presidential commitments among their colleagues almost since 1964, with an identical lack of success.

Like the Democrats, the Republican governors have consistently denied they are out to stop anybody in the presidential race. In their case, anybody means Richard M. Nixon.

So far, the governors have been true to their statement. They haven't slowed down the Nixon drive, and they haven't started one for anybody else.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The script for a two-hour movie only runs to about 140 pages.

Held in the hand and carelessly thumbled through, it doesn't look very impressive. It isn't even printed in living color.

But it can literally be worth thousands of times its weight in gold. For in the film industry a script is something like a blueprint of Ft. Knox, since the outcome of a multimillion-dollar production may depend upon whether the words upon its pages have impact.

"You have to be honest in picture making for a change," said Peter Stone, "and that is confusing to a lot of people who have never tried to be honest."

One of the newer word wizards in the industry, Peter scored big with his first film script, "Charade," and he and cowriter Frank Tarloff won Oscars with a second try, "Father Goose."

Stone teamed up with Tarloff again to write "The Secret War of Harry Frigg," and since then he has battled out "Sweet Charity" and "Skin Game."

For a fellow only 38 that's setting a fast pace.

Practically born into the industry—he's the son of the late Jack Stone, a top producer-writer—Peter took a master's degree at Yale, then lived 10 years in France while he served his apprenticeship grinding out scores of television tales. He won an Emmy Award for his work on "The Defender" series, and has written a couple of Broadway musicals.

Assassin Wounds Algerian Leader

ALGIERS (AP) — President Houari Boumedienne was slightly injured Thursday when an assassin raked his car with machine-gun fire, the Algeria Press Agency said.

Boumedienne was cut on the face by flying glass. His car had just left the government palace following a Cabinet meeting. His chauffeur was reported wounded.

After the incident, a guard was thrown around the palace. There was no immediate word on the fate of the gunman.

Seek War Chest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers announced today a drive to raise a $1 million war chest to help fight court injunctions, fines and jail terms against striking teachers.

Stone spends up to six months plotting a script, only six weeks composing the dialogue, and prefers to do his actual writing away from Hollywood.

"There's an old saying about writers—no one ever got better after he went to Hollywood, so you'd better be good before you go there. I think it's true."

"Hollywood isn't a bad place, but the people who go there are trying to escape reality. That's why the whole country seems to be flocking there—to get away from cold weather, slums, and other realities."

"But a writer can't afford to do that. He has to keep in touch with reality. If he gets away from reality, he's dead."

A man with positive and sometimes controversial ideas about his medium, Peter believes the film business has changed radically. "You can still make salami pictures that get by," he admitted. "But stars alone don't guarantee success anymore, nor does subject matter alone."

"The only thing that connects is when you strike a chord of recognition in the 16 to 25-year age group—not the bobby soxers or the dropouts but the young people who don't watch television because they are more interested in life, who are committed and aware."

Peter has a higher opinion of European than most American directors.

"Too many of our directors are only one-dimensional craftsmen. They are too intrigued with the camera alone. Very few want to spend time working with the writer on the script, because it cuts down on the number of films they can make."

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

Lt. Col. Gayle C. Wolf, son of Mrs. Elmer Wolf whose home is 545 N. Court St., is at present stationed in Viet Nam.

The men in his group have launched a program which they have named, "Father's Day for Servicemen in Vietnam." A James E. Jordan, who is a USAF Captain and chaplain, is co-chairman of the drive. Chaplain Jordan was stationed at Lockbourne Air base for some time, and his wife still lives in Columbus and teaches school there. Mrs. Wolfe and her family also live in Columbus.

The goal of the drive is to provide 1,000 Vietnamese children with kits containing the following: one bar of soap, one wash cloth, one towel, one toothbrush, one tube of toothpaste, one T shirt and one pair of pants or a pair of shorts. They estimate each kit will cost about $3 and they are asking for contributions of money or merchandise. They plan to start the distribution of these items to the children on Father's Day, June 16th. Therefore they ask that all items, monetary or merchandise, be in the mail by June 13th.

There are several important things to remember. First, that all items except the shirts and shorts can be purchased over there, probably more economically than buying them here and shipping them. Second, the T shirts and shorts or pants (which cannot be bought over there) must be in children's sizes up to and including size 5, but no larger. Third, if you send merchandise, it is advisable to have your package weigh no more than 5 pounds and it will go at a special air mail rate known as SAM. The address to send to is: Senior Protestant Chaplain, 37 Cmbt. Spt. Gp. (BCH), APO San Francisco, Cal. 96368.

Gifts of money should be sent via money order, made payable to same address. These kits will be given out by the medical teams at the base, in conjunction with a medical examination and instructions on health and dental care.

This material came to my attention as a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, of which Lt. Col. Wolf is also a member. After discussing it with some others, we felt perhaps there were others in Circleville who might be interested in helping with this project. We take such every day necessities as soap and toothpaste for granted, but they are practically unknown to many of the suffering Vietnamese.

If anyone wishes more information, you may write to the Chaplain as listed above, or call me and I will try to tell you what you wish to know. Mrs. Wolf assured me that 1,000 was a minimum figure they were trying to help, and if they receive more than that, there would be children to use them.

Army Private Held in Slaying Of Service Wife

GRAFENWOEHR, Germany (AP)—An Army private was being held without charge as authorities continued the investigation today into the killing of a sergeant's wife who was from Akron, Ohio.

Pfc. Tommy Lloyd Kelly, 21, Purcell, Okla., was taken into custody after police said they found his sunglasses near the spot where Mrs. James F. Harriman, 44, was clubbed to death Monday night.

She was killed after a celebration of her husband's 43rd birthday. German police said blood was found on the arrested soldier's uniform.

Mrs. Harriman was beaten to death with a wooden board from the fence surrounding the house where she and her husband lived, German police said.

By DON REEDER

Ft. LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—On June 7 more than 1,200 elite officers will march across a stage on this venerable Army post and receive certificates denoting their graduation from one of the toughest schools in the military.

Six of them will be wearing skirts.

The six women—five WACs and one Army nurse—will be the first ever to complete the full 10-month course at the Army Command and General Staff College.

How does it feel to be a female surrounded by men who outnumber you by more than 200 to 1?

"It's great," grinned Maj.

Marilyn J. Russell. "Odds like that are hard to come by."

The light remark by Maj. Russell, an exuberant WAC from Salt Lake City, Utah, typifies the attitude of the six women. They're all career soldiers with overseas experience, and they play it cool.

Other feminine members of the class are Lt. Col. Nancy M. Hopfenspirger of Delmar, N.Y.; Lt. Col. Martha J. Thompson of Iowa City, Iowa; Lt. Col. Kitt M. MacMichael of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Lt. Col. Inez L. Nease of Geneva, N.Y., and Lt. Col. Doris S. Frazier of Malden, Mo.—the latter the college's only member of the Army Nurse Corps.

Until last year women of the military service attended the college's 18-week associate course offered mainly for Reservists, National Guard officers and others.

But with abolishment of the short term, the Army faced the decision whether to subject females to the rigorous full course. The brass decided to try it, and both the Pentagon and the girls are happy with the results.

"It all came as quite a shock to me when they told me I was coming here," said Col. Frazier, a tall brunette who had been serving as a hospital operating room supervisor.

The fact some of the college's courses deal with weapons and large-scale tactics—something with which none of them had any experience—doesn't rattle the ladies.

"In fact, I was told since we didn't have any background in tactics, it would be easier for us because we didn't have anything to unlearn," related Col. Thompson.

Col. Nease said male members of the class go out of their way to help them with their studies.

"The instructors are great, too," said Col. MacMichael. "They even come back and check out their jokes with us before they tell them in class."

The women take the same studies as the men—concentrating on such complex topics as combat service support, joint planning, management leadership and logistics.

In addition each of them takes an elective course in a field in which she is interested.

Col. Thompson and Maj. Russell are tackling personnel management. Col. Hopfenspirger military history. Col. MacMichael advanced logistics. Col. Nease French and Col. Frazier research and systems analysis.

Along with the men, they take their turn receiving "blue gorse" assignments in which they command a class section in a tactical problem.

"The men work harder when they know we're the leader," joked Col. Hopfenspirger, adding a wry smile.

"Me, I always draw a job like leading the airborne troops in some invasion."

Upon graduation the women officers will be assigned to higher echelon staff posts.

Col. Hopfenspirger will go to the Army's Pacific Headquarters at Ft. Shafter, Hawaii; Col. Thompson to Ft. Belvoir, Va.,

and the other four to the Pentagon.

"They're always asking 'What do I call you?'" said Col. Thompson.

College instructors have nothing but praise for their female warriors.

"The gals become sort of den mothers to their class," said Lt. Col. Jacques Bernier, who teaches joint combined and special operations. "The guys are very loyal to them."

"I don't even give it any consideration any longer that there's a woman in the class," said Lt. Col. Robert M. Clenaghan of the command department. "She's just another student."

Lt. Col. Hugh H. Johnson, who teaches larger unit operations, summed up by conferring upon the six women the highest accomplished one soldier could give another.

"These girls," he said, "are professionals."

OK Disaster Aid for 3 Ohio Counties

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two Ohio counties hit by tornadoes Tuesday have been declared disaster areas by the Small Business Administration.

The SBA in Washington announced Thursday that Scioto and Brown counties were designated disaster areas because of damage from tornadoes.

The designation permits owners of homes, businesses, churches and charitable institutions whose property was damaged to apply for 3 per cent repair loans. Loan applications will be accepted at the SBA office in Columbus.

Gov. James A. Rhodes also had asked that Clermont County, also hit by a tornado Tuesday, be declared a disaster area, but it was not included in the SBA report.

Six persons were killed at Wheelersburg, Scioto County, and one each in Brown and Clermont counties by the tornadoes.

Full power is expected to be restored in the Wheelersburg area by today and full telephone service by Monday. Telephone service is expected to be restored completely today in Clermont and Brown counties.

Sentence Youth In Coach Slaying

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Will Edward Dixon, 19, was sentenced to one to 20 years in the Ohio Reformatory Thursday for the stabbing death last September of a Dayton high school football coach, Thomas Prinz.

Dixon's sentencing came after he pleaded guilty to first-degree manslaughter, changing his original plea of innocent of a second-degree murder charge. He had been granted a change of venue from Dayton.

Prinz was fatally stabbed as he tried to remove Dixon bodily from the football practice field of Wilbur Wright High School.

Military Building Bill Is Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $1.8 billion military construction authorization bill, including $265,000 for Newark, Ohio, Air Force Station, won House approval Thursday by a 345 to 14 roll-call vote. It now faces Senate action.

The annual measure, which paves the way for future appropriations, listed no other Ohio projects.

Eye Fire Cause

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A defective television converter may have caused the fire which burned the roof off 76-year-old Edison Elementary School Wednesday, Dayton firemen said Thursday.

Cypress Trees in Rome Hit by Parasitic Growth

By GERALD MILLER
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP)—The cypress trees of Rome are pining away, just like the pines. And like almost everything else in this green and sunny land, it's causing controversy.

According to the city's Department of Gardens, a parasitic growth that first appeared in the United States 40 years ago is spreading at epidemic rate through some of Rome's finest evergreens.

The affliction, called Coryneum cardinale, shows up as yellow blotches on cypress boughs. It turns them the color of rust before they drop off, leaving nothing but bare trunk, as unlovely as a telephone pole.

The pines are also withering but not from a natural parasite. Their malady is industrialization. At least two separate studies by experts agree that the pines are more susceptible than other trees to automobile exhaust, industrial fumes and smoke from homes.

The umbrella pine and the sentinel cypress are as characteristic of Rome as fountains, baroque palaces, marble and burnt amber.

Roman newspapers are in a froth over the Garden Department report. "Attacked by a parasite!" shouted Il Giornale D'Italia in a front-page story. "The cypresses of Rome are condemned to die!"

The daily Momento Sera predicted that unscrupulous real estate dealers would use the report to justify indiscriminate cutting of wooded areas to make way for more apartment houses.

City Councilman Luigi Sapio said there was no reason for panic—yet. He said the number of hopelessly ill cypresses was not large and gave assurance that the city government would prevent healthy specimens being cut down.

OU Branch Plans Law Officer Class

Members of Chillicothe's city government and law enforcement officials met with Ohio University personnel Tuesday night.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the possibility of instituting courses in law enforcement at the Chillicothe branch of OU.

W. L. Mundell, continuing education specialist at OU-C, said it is hoped to hold five sessions on supervisory education for police, firemen and county public safety officers. At a later date OU-C may continue with courses in basic traffic, accident investigation, courtroom procedure, psychology of law enforcement and criminal investigation.

The planned course was developed at the request of Chillicothe Council President Metzger to improve supervisory abilities in the city Police and Fire department for men who are or may be supervisors.

Representative Myrl H. Shoemaker, in attendance, said, "This was the type of fruit we wanted to bear. We hope for immediate upgrading of the community through advanced education." He referred to the first acquisition of land for the university.

Passenger Train Hearings Slated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission says public hearings have been scheduled on a Penn Central proposal to discontinue two passenger trains. The trains are No. 50, the Admiral, from Chicago to New York, and No. 53, the Fort Pitt, from Pittsburgh to Chicago.

The hearings, announced Thursday for 11 cities, include Lima, Ohio, May 29, and Canton, Ohio May 31.

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Ted Mosel, a talented, sensitive writer who quit television several seasons back for the freer, greener field of Broadway and motion pictures, will be back on the tube on May 15 with an original drama, "Secrets," the last of this season's "CBS Playhouse" series.

"I had something to say, something I thought was important, about privacy and the parts of peoples lives that they do not reveal to anyone else," Mosel said. "I think it makes an interesting play. And I also think that it is a drama with a theme that is adult enough that it would never have been produced on television 10 years ago."

Mosel, along with Reginald Rose and Loring Mandel, are among the eminent TV dropouts who have recently been lured back to the medium by "CBS Playhouse" which not only gives its writers freedom to express themselves but also pays extra large prices for scripts.

The CBS experiment quite frankly was designed more for network prestige than for Nielsen points. And the series must be counted as an enormous success. It has already picked up a Peabody award and has been nominated for Emmys—and the three dramas shown have produced Nielsen numbers much larger than anyone dared hope for.

Wolper Productions, which have had a hand in this season's National Geographic specials on CBS and ABC's "Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau" have formally protested the nominating procedures of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences which, somehow, overlooked the two series.

The Cousteau series, in particular, was an extraordinary oversight by ABC since the list of some 250 Emmy nominations included any number of documentary shows infinitely inferior to them.

John Carson will be off the "Tonight Show" for a vacation the week of May 13. His substitute will be former baseball player Joe Garagiola who has persuaded Jack Paar to return for one night.

Women's Group Hears Mrs. Roth

CINCINNATI (AP)—Trying to help build a better America that emerging nations will want to emulate, the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs has stressed community improvements since 1966.

Federation members have donated more than 3.5 million hours in volunteer services and thousands of dollars to various groups, the retiring president said Thursday.

Since "our political leaders and scientists seemed almost entirely preoccupied with preparation for more and more trips to outer space," said Mrs. Benjamin Roth of Youngstown, the program was a necessity.

She spoke during the annual Convention of the Federation Thursday.

Ground Broken For New School

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes broke ground here today for the Muskingum Area Joint Vocational High School and the Muskingum Area Technical Institute.

In doing so he declared that vocational-technical education "must cease to be an educational stepchild if we are to prepare our young people adequately for the labor market."

Rhodes said "it is a strange paradox when thousands of our young people are unable to find productive employment, yet there are thousands of unfilled jobs throughout the state."

Nixon Urges Ghetto Work By Business

Use of Private
Funds, Energies
Is Advocated

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says the nation must "get private enterprise into the ghetto" and at the same time "get the people of the ghetto into private enterprise—as workers, as managers, as owners."

This is the solution to America's racial problems, the former vice president said in a nationwide radio address on CBS Thursday night.

"What we do not need now is another round of unachievable promises of unavailable funds," the Republican presidential aspirant said.

"What we do need is imaginative enlistment of private funds, private energies and private talents in order to develop the opportunities that lie untapped in our own underdeveloped urban heartland."

Nixon, who was in Oregon, said in the CBS network address that federal efforts in solving the problems of the cities and their slums "ought to be oriented toward more black ownership, for from this can flow... black pride, black jobs, black opportunity and yes, black power, in the best, the constructive sense of that often misapplied term."

Massive new federal funds for the ghettos are not available and money is not the answer, Nixon said. "For too long, white America has sought to buy off the Negro—and to buy off its own sense of guilt," he added.

Nixon said too many welfare programs have simply perpetuated a tradition of dependency, and added: "Our task is to break this cycle by helping bring to the ghetto the light of hope, pride and self-respect."

Wage Dispute Still Unsettled In Covington

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Covington city commissioners attempted Thursday to effect a settlement in the wage dispute with the city's firemen and policemen but their efforts hardly got off the ground.

The commissioners authorized Mayor Claude Hensley to offer the firemen and policeman a $208 annual raise but a spokesman said "the offer is too ridiculous to submit" to them for a vote.

The firemen and policemen are seeking a $1,000 annual pay hike and the firemen, numbering around 100, threatened to strike if their salary demands were not met.

But they agreed to settle the dispute through arbitration although a mediation board has not yet been established.

But they agreed to settle the dispute through arbitration although a mediation board has not yet been established.

CONSTANT COMPANIONS

Copyright 1968 Keister Advertising Service, Inc., Strasburg, Va.

"Those three are always together," remarked Lisa's mother. She was referring to her little daughter, who is seldom seen without her beloved collie, and her well-worn rag doll. They are constant companions.

"Lisa is very sensitive about friends," her mother continued. "And this week she came home from Sunday School with a very important lesson. Her teacher told her about God's love, and how He never leaves us. Lisa came skipping into the house and announced, 'Now I have three good friends, and the best one of all is Jesus.'"

Little Lisa had indeed learned a wonderful truth. All of us need to discover it for our own lives. For every life needs the companionship of God. Let your church bring this hope and promise to you.

CLASS PLAY REHEARSALS — Keitha Wagner, left, who portrays Dorothy, and Pat Coleman as the character Aunt Em, are preparing for the opening of the Senior Class Play, "Wizard of Oz." A matinee will be held May 2, with evening performances May 3 and 4.

By SHARON JOHNSON and DEBBIE STONEROCK

Hard work, long hours and talent are but a few of the elements needed in this year's musical, "The Wizard of Oz." Students sprang into their roles at last week's rehearsal. Along with acting, many have various other parts that require singing and dancing. Many long hours have been put into dance routines and learning songs in order to meet the deadline for production May 3.

Committees have been selecting and making costumes along with distributing posters and tickets. Tickets are being sold at Risch's, Bingham's, Fitzpatrick's, and Noel's on Route 22. This Saturday students will be selling tickets in front of Murphy's and Bingham's and tickets may also be purchased from any cast member.

Although the play starts off like the original production, some new ideas are brought out in different scenes. Highlighting one scene is a revolving bridge which complicates the journey to Oz.

This year's senior class play promises to be "better than ever" and CHS seniors extend a cordial invitation for all to come. Production will be May 3 and 4 at 8 p.m. in the Senior High School Auditorium. A special children's matinee will be held May 2 at 4 p.m. in the auditorium.

Jeff Steele, Rick Congrove Spotlited

By DON COZAD and BETSY HAMRICK

Jeff Steele, a returning letterman, is first baseman on the CHS baseball team. Jeff and the team now give most of their practice time listening to the advice of Coach Chuck Hill and working on the finer points of the game.

JEFF STEELE

Jeff is an exciting player. His actions are smooth and swift. As a batter he shows his strength as he rips the air with the lightning swing of his bat. Jeff has hopes set on having a winning team and he is contributing all he has to make it that way.

Rick Congrove, last year's "Most Valuable" player, has been a member of the SCOL League team for two years. Rick plays the position of second baseman.

RICK CONGROVE

Besides athletics, Rick has been a class officer for two years. Presently Rick is co-editor of the Red and Black Page and is a member of the set committee for the senior class play. Rick commented, "Our baseball team has the potential for taking the league and going far in the state."

Seniors Face Last of Many CHS Memories

As the end of the school year rolls around it is hard for seniors to realize this is the last of many happy memories. For the seniors, the best lies ahead of what few days are left.

On May 27, seniors will return their textbooks and have their last assembly as a class within the walls of CHS. May 28 through 31, they will practice for their baccalaureate and commencement exercises.

May 30, their class will unite and have a picnic and will recall those days of gladness associated with the Red and Black.

Last but not least, June 2, seniors will be decked all out in their burgundy and white caps and gowns, marching down the aisle, to receive their diplomas. This will be the happiest yet saddest event for seniors, for this concludes the seniors' memories.

Today's Youth Are Leaders Of Tomorrow

By DARYL BROWN

The youth of today are going to be the leaders of tomorrow. Already the tempo of the times is dictated by the younger generation as they speak out and are heard. Advertising is geared to the youth. So are politics. The younger politicians appear with more frequency across our nation and all politicians look to the young people for support. For this reason today's youth must take care in making their political decisions.

Parties are often chosen for the wrong reasons — because parents or friends support a certain party. Too many times the basic position of a political party is not even known by a young person who avidly supports it. Candidates for office are also chosen and voted for because of their flowery phrases or podium pounding. Deserving candidates have been eliminated merely because their opponents looked more capable, physically, or were more eloquent speakers, not because of the viewpoint on the issues at hand.

Issues should be examined scrupulously with regard not only to immediate effects but to long range results. An experienced candidate's record should be taken into consideration to see if he has attempted to fulfill promises. A person should not be afraid to cross party lines if he feels that it is in the best interest of his city, state, or nation.

Today's youth are often criticized because of the rebellious minority who seek and obtain the spotlight of the news. But there are many who are capable and willing to grapple with the issues of the day and accept the responsibilities of modern society.

Student Council Approved By City Board for Trial

By JACK CARLE

A student council for CHS was approved recently by the City Board of Education. The council will be conducted on a one year trial basis. The purpose of this council is to promote better students and faculty and promote better relations throughout the school.

The council will consist of a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, one member from each homeroom and the president of the junior and senior classes. Petitions are now being circulated for the offices of the council. They require signatures of three faculty members and 25 students.

The advisor of the council, as yet undetermined will be a member of the high school faculty and responsible for reporting all student council proceedings to the principal.

The council does not possess the power to function in the areas of student discipline, or general school policy such as hair, dress and conduct. The principal has the power to veto over all student council actions.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Hubby's Hairpiece Causes Confusion

DEAR ABBY: I never cared much for wigs on men, but lately I have been changing my mind. Altho my husband is only in his early forties, he's been bald for some time. Not only that, but his head comes to a decided point on top. Lately his head has taken on a "polished" look, which makes the point on top all the more conspicuous.

I am so tired of people asking me, "What happened to your husband's head?"

Wouldn't a wig be less conspicuous? If I say to get one, he says he'll get one.

Another question: If my husband does decide to get a wig, will he have to have new passport pictures taken in the wig? And where it says "Hair," should he put down "BALD" or the color of the wig? Thank you kindly.

MRS. F. IN LAS VEGAS

DEAR MRS. F. If your husband would be happier with a "wig," he should certainly get one. And since the hairpiece will change his appearance considerably, if he plans to wear it constantly, he should update his passport pictures. And where it says "HAIR" he should put down the color of his "wig." (P.S. I hope your husband doesn't "flip his wig" abroad or he may have trouble getting back in the country.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow of less than one year. My income has dropped from $1,900 a month to $1,500 a month, so I have to watch my pennies now.

I have one son. He is married and goes to college. He and his wife have been coming to my home for Sunday dinner regularly, and they bring their laundry to do in my washing machine. About a month ago, I told them that due to my reduced circumstances I was going to charge them 25c a load for the use of my facilities. My son said, "Thank you, Mother, but we will do our laundry elsewhere."

Abby, where can they get their laundry done as cheap as here? And as long as they pay to get it done, why not give me the money? I am very hurt. In fact, I am sick over it because we had a wonderful relationship before this happened. They still come to me for Sunday dinners, but they refuse to bring their laundry. Was I right or wrong in asking for 25 cents a load?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Unless the few dollars involved would have worked a hardship on you, you'd have been wiser to have skipped it. Apologize for pinching pennies and hope that everything comes out in the wash.

DEAR ABBY: I have a rather well-to-do uncle who is in his late seventies now. About 12 years ago, this uncle asked me if I would be "executor" of his will. I told him I would and that was the end of the conversation. As such, I don't have the faintest idea what I am supposed to do. Should I write and ask him?

I don't want him to get the idea that I am waiting for him to die because I'm not, but shouldn't I know where to find his valuable papers and so on in case of his death? I didn't sign anything and am wondering if he has changed his mind and asked somebody else or what.

How should I go about getting this information?

UNINFORMED

DEAR UNINFORMED: If you don't have a lawyer, get one, and ask him to handle it for you.

Rose One of Few Bright Spots for Slumping Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose knows only one way to play baseball—by hustling—and the results of his efforts speak loudly.

Rose is batting at a torrid .400 clip as he has batted out 200 safeties in 50 at bats and he is leading the slumping Cincinnati Reds in several hitting categories.

He's one of the few bright spots on the club so far this year, as the Reds' early time-hitting has gone awry and their pitching potential has yet to be reached. Three 1967 starters are suffering from sore arms.

Rose, one of the few players to make the National League All-Star team as both an infielder and outfielder, is a crowd pleaser and it's not just because of his hits and patented head-first slides.

Two weeks ago at Atlanta, the fiery Cincinnati took after a pop foul ball that could be caught only in one place—the stands. That's where he ended up.

Running at top speed, Rose was on a collision course with a fence. But he scaled it and wound up in the stands although he didn't come up with the ball.

Nevertheless, the chase won him a lengthy round of applause.

Rose, converted from a second baseman into a leftfielder and now into a rightfielder, has shown his arm is fairly strong and accurate. During a recent game at St. Louis, Orlando Cepeda, although far from a speedster, stroked a ball into double territory and Rose threw him out by plenty before he could reach second.

Rose has hit six doubles, a triple and two home runs while batting in six runs and scoring eight this year.

He heads the club in average, hits, runs and doubles and only Tony Perez, who has three homers, tops him in that department.

Pipers Eke Out Win over Bucs

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "What do you have to do to win down here?" moaned Pittsburgh Coach Vince Cazzetta. A three-point goal had just sent the Pipers' American Basketball Association championship playoff game against New Orleans into overtime.

Cazzetta found out five minutes later.

All he needed was Charlie Williams at the free throw line with one second left in the extra period. Williams calmly sank the charity shot to give Pittsburgh a 106-105 victory over the Buccaneers.

The best-of-7 playoff series is tied 2-2. Action resumes Saturday in Pittsburgh, returns here for the sixth game next Wednesday. The seventh, if needed, is scheduled May 4 in Pittsburgh.

Wichita State Receives Penalty

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Wichita State was penalized by the Missouri Valley Conference Thursday night for football recruiting violations, and only the prompt action of school officials prevented more serious penalties.

Norvall Neve, Valley commissioner, made this clear as he fined the school $1,500 and banned it from NCAA-approved bowl games for two years and from NCAA football television for three years.

The violations by former Coach Boyd Converse and part of his staff were, in Neve's words, "numerous and wilful."

The Braves banded a total of 15 hits off losing pitcher Joe Link, who had four strikeouts and one walk.

Danny Fausnaugh blasted a double and two singles in five trips to the plate. Jim Orders had a triple and a single in four trips. Steve Montgomery hit a double and a single. Bob Triplehorn and Steve Swank both singled twice.

AL Stymied In Setup Of Divisions

CHICAGO (AP) — The American League, which made tracks over the National League in expanding to 12 teams for 1969, now is slowed down in those tracks.

The Nationals were miffed when the Americans voted last winter without mutual consultation to admit Seattle and retreated Kansas City to membership next season.

It forced the Nationals to advance their expansion plans, originally targeted for not later than 1971, to 1969 also. They now are pondering the selection of two new cities from among San Diego, Milwaukee, Dallas-Fort Worth, Buffalo and Montreal.

The Nationals will meet in mid-May presumably to vote on the two new franchises.

Until this is done, the Americans consider themselves stymied in their decision to split their league in two six-team divisions next year with playoffs to determine the circuit's pennant winner and World Series representative.

At an American League owners meeting Thursday, President Joe Cronin said that the brass wants divisional play in 1969 but scheduling action has been delayed pending the National's move.

Laver and Cox Battle Today

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP) — Rod Laver of Australia, the world's top money-making professional, had the task of taming British giant killer Mark Cox today and salvaging the reputation of the pros.

Two professionals — Ken Rosewall of Australia and Andres Gimeno of Spain — were paired in the other semi-final today.

Holzman Studies Next NBA Drafts

NEW YORK (AP) — Red Holzman, who'll return for his first full season as the New York Knickerbockers coach, has much too busy planning for the upcoming National Basketball Association drafts to make predictions about next year's race.

"There's bound to be improvement next year, but right now we have the drafts to worry about," he said.

Rose has hit six doubles, a triple and two home runs while batting in six runs and scoring eight this year.

Pipers Eke Out Win over Bucs

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "What do you have to do to win down here?" moaned Pittsburgh Coach Vince Cazzetta. A three-point goal had just sent the Pipers' American Basketball Association championship playoff game against New Orleans into overtime.

Cazzetta found out five minutes later. All he needed was Charlie Williams at the free throw line with one second left in the extra period. Williams calmly sank the charity shot to give Pittsburgh a 106-105 victory over the Buccaneers.

The best-of-7 playoff series is tied 2-2. Action resumes Saturday in Pittsburgh, returns here for the sixth game next Wednesday. The seventh, if needed, is scheduled May 4 in Pittsburgh.

White Sox Lose 10th Consecutive Game

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The White Sox still haven't won any baseball games this season, and the slump is keeping Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky in terrific shape.

Stanky spent 20 minutes walking briskly from foul line to foul line in Minnesota's Metropolitan Stadium Thursday, swinging a leaded bat and mulling over his club's latest loss—a 3-2 touthie against the Twins.

He started his post-game stroll routine last Saturday when the Sox dropped their seventh straight. Now the streak is up to 10 for winless Chicago, and Stanky is still walking.

In Thursday's only other game, the Chicago Cubs whipped Atlanta 5-2 as Ron Santo poked a pair of home runs. All other major league teams had the day off.

"How am I holding up?" Stanky said, repeating a newsman's question. "Great."

Then he strolled off to the trainer's room to lie down for several more minutes.

It was the kind of loss that required long meditation. Chicago ace Gary Peters allowed just three hits—but all of them in a row in the third inning when the Twins got all their runs. "The way we're going," Peters said, "you make one bad pitch, and it costs you."

And what made it even tougher for Stanky to swallow was that an old teammate from his New York Giant days was the hero for the Twins.

Rubber-armed Al Worthington came out of the bullpen and saved Jim Perry's victory. Worthington loaded the bases with none out in the seventh on two singles and a walk, then struck out Pete Ward, Tommy Davis and Russ Snyder, retiring the side.

The Twins' three-run rally started with two out when Perry walked on a 3-2 pitch. Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva followed with doubles and Harmon Killebrew singled.

The White Sox scored twice in the fifth when Peters, Ken Berry and Ward singled and Davis delivered a sacrifice fly.

Chicago left 11 runners on base and one manager in the outfield.

Santo's two homers drove in three runs and supported Ferguson Jenkins' seven-hitter as the Cubs trimmed the Braves.

Atlanta's only runs came on homers by Bob Tillman and Felipe Alou.

Santo connected with the bases empty in the fourth against Ken Johnson and then sparked a three-run rally with his second shot in the eighth.

Gary Player Credits Lead To Putting

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A tough course and difficult playing conditions don't worry the golf tour half as much as balking putters.

In fact, Gary Player, the man from South Africa who has gotten rich in American golf, says there's just no need to even talk about high winds that do things with your ball when your putting is on the beam.

He illustrated his point by the four-under-par 66 that showed he was leading the $100,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic by one stroke going into the second round.

He got solid backing in giving putting the major emphasis by four fellows who were just behind him.

Miller Barber of Sherman, Tex.; Harold Henning of South Africa; and Jack Montgomery of Fort Worth, Tex., all shot 67 and each told about how their putters put them over.

Barber got his three birdies with putts of 18, 35 and 30 feet. Henning used only 28 putts to go around the 7,086-yard Preston Trail course that was swept by winds ranging up to 30 miles per hour.

Montgomery had two 50-footers in his birdie string.

Illness and injury took a bigger toll than the tough course and high wind as eight players dropped out, including such fellows as Julius Boros, Johnny Pott, Sam Snead, Art Wall and Steve Reid, who had just won the Azalea Open.

Black Hawks Stay Alive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Black Hawks still are alive in the Stanley Cup playoffs because they practiced what Coach Billy Reay preached.

"Montreal can be beaten," Reay had predicted. "All you've got to do is start with great goaltending and then play your best for 60 minutes."

Denis DeJordy provided the goaltending heroics and Bobby Hull, who is very much Chicago's best, scored the goals as the Hawks edged the Canadiens 2-1 Wednesday night. Montreal still leads the National Hockey League Eastern Division finals three games to one with the next contest set for Montreal and national television Sunday afternoon.

Minnesota took a 2-1 lead over St. Louis in their best-of-7 West Division finals by trouncing the Blues 5-1 as Bill Goldsworthy scored two goals and added two assists.

White Sox Lose 10th Consecutive Game

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

The White Sox still haven't won any baseball games this season, and the slump is keeping Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky in terrific shape.

Stanky spent 20 minutes walking briskly from foul line to foul line in Minnesota's Metropolitan Stadium Thursday, swinging a leaded bat and mulling over his club's latest loss—a 3-2 touthie against the Twins.

He started his post-game stroll routine last Saturday when the Sox dropped their seventh straight. Now the streak is up to 10 for winless Chicago, and Stanky is still walking.

In Thursday's only other game, the Chicago Cubs whipped Atlanta 5-2 as Ron Santo poked a pair of home runs. All other major league teams had the day off.

"How am I holding up?" Stanky said, repeating a newsman's question. "Great."

Gary Player Credits Lead To Putting

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A tough course and difficult playing conditions don't worry the golf tour half as much as balky putters.

In fact, Gary Player, the man from South Africa who has gotten rich in American golf, says there's just no need to even talk about high winds that do things with your ball when your putting is on the beam.

He illustrated his point by the four-under-par 66 that showed he was leading the $100,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic by one stroke going into the second round.

He got solid backing in giving putting the major emphasis by four fellows who were just behind him.

Miller Barber of Sherman, Tex.; Harold Henning of South Africa, and Jack Montgomery of Fort Worth, Tex., all shot 67 and each told about how their putters put them over.

Barber got his three birdies with putts of 18, 35 and 30 feet. Henning used only 28 putts to go around the 7,086-yard Preston Trail course that was swept by winds ranging up to 30 miles per hour.

Montgomery had two 50-footers in his birdie string.

Illness and injury took a bigger toll than the tough course and high wind as eight players dropped out, including such fellows as Julius Boros, Johnny Pott, Sam Snead, Art Wall and Steve Reid, who had just won the Azalea Open.

Then he strolled off to the trainer's room to lie down for several more minutes.

It was the kind of loss that required long meditation. Chicago ace Gary Peters allowed just three hits—but all of them in a row in the third inning when the Twins got all their runs. "The way we're going," Peters said, "you make one bad pitch, and it costs you."

And what made it even tougher for Stanky to swallow was that an old teammate from his New York Giant days was the hero for the Twins.

Rubber-armed Al Worthington came out of the bullpen and saved Jim Perry's victory. Worthington loaded the bases with none out in the seventh on two singles and a walk, then struck out Pete Ward, Tommy Davis and Russ Snyder, retiring the side.

The Twins' three-run rally started with two out when Perry walked on a 3-2 pitch. Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva followed with doubles and Harmon Killebrew singled.

The White Sox scored twice in the fifth when Peters, Ken Berry and Ward singled and Davis delivered a sacrifice fly.

Chicago left 11 runners on base and one manager in the outfield. Santo's two homers drove in three runs and supported Ferguson Jenkins' seven-bitter as the Cubs trimmed the Braves.

Atlanta's only runs came on homers by Bob Tillman and Felipe Alou. Santo connected with the bases empty in the fourth against Ken Johnson and then sparked a three-run rally with his second shot in the eighth.

Black Hawks Stay Alive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Black Hawks still are alive in the Stanley Cup playoffs because they practiced what Coach Billy Reay preached.

"Montreal can be beaten," Reay had predicted. "All you've got to do is start with great goaltending and then play your best for 60 minutes."

Denis DeJordy provided the goaltending heroics and Bobby Hull, who is very much Chicago's best, scored the goals as the Hawks edged the Canadiens 2-1 Wednesday night. Montreal still leads the National Hockey League Eastern Division finals three games to one with the next contest set for Montreal and national television Sunday afternoon.

Minnesota took a 2-1 lead over St. Louis in their best-of-7 West Division finals by trouncing the Blues 5-1 as Bill Goldworthy scored two goals and added two assists.

Teen Toastmaster Grads Honored by Circleville Club

WINNING SPEAKERS — Toastmaster District Governor Orville Hullinger presented awards to teenagers who won speech contests during the graduation ceremonies of the Circleville Toastmasters Club's youth program. Receiving trophies are, from the left, Wes Jones, John Brobst, Brooks Davis and Vanessa Hatfield.

There was no "loss for words" Thursday evening during the combined graduation ceremonies for the 22 teenagers who completed the two 8-week youth leadership courses sponsored by the Circleville Toastmaster Club.

Parents and teachers attended the event at Circleville High School where four students from the classes competed in speech contests to determine the best speakers.

The winner and runnerup for Class No. 1 were John Brobst and Brooks Davis, respectively. The winner and runnerup for Class No. 2 was Vanessa Hatfield and Wes Jones.

Class No. 2 was determined the best class. Miss Sharon Archer served as toastmistress of the evening and conducted the ceremonies.

Miss Sandy Porter served as table topics chairman, providing entertainment by selecting subjects for impromptu talks by 14 graduates. This seminar was won by Mike Fuller. Miss Brenda Southward and Miss Pam Hatfield served as toastmistresses for class 1 and 2 respectively.

Judging was conducted by the following members of the Circleville Toastmasters Club:

Tom Fitzgerald, Tom Matesky, Dale Mears, Chuck Orr, Pheris Kreiger, Ken Smith and Howard Snook. Gary Agin served as timer.

Bill Gary, speaker from Circleville Toastmasters Club who won first place at the club, area and division levels in this year's serious speech contests gave a talk explaining to the guests and parents what the youth leadership course was about.

Officials of Toastmasters International including district governor Orville Hullinger, division governor Carl Harrington, and district youth leadership chairman Ed Reese attended the event. Certificates were awarded to those who had successfully completed the program.

Among those present also were the members of the Circleville Toastmasters club who conducted the two classes. Class 1 was conducted by Robert Ogden, George Robinson and Rusty Vaughan. Class 2 was conducted by William Kirkpatrick, and William Gary.

The chairman of the youth leadership program, Robert Ogden, in presenting certificates, congratulated the young people and complimented them on their poise and confidence.

"The training these students have been receiving through the youth leadership program will enable them to be participants in the important activities of our community and our country instead of mere onlookers," he said.

Also present were Edward G. Grigg, General Electric plant manager, Fritz Jacobs, Circleville superintendent of schools and Richard Gerhardt, mayor.

District Governor Orville Hullinger gave a brief talk before he awarded trophies to speech contest winners. Hullinger also presented outgoing area governor William Kirkpatrick a certificate of appreciation.

After the presentation of awards for best impromptu speakers, Division Governor Carl Harrington stated that through seeing and hearing this program tonight and those sponsored by other toastmaster clubs it is possible to see that the gap in communications between the youth of today and the adults is less than most of us believe.

He commented that Toastmasters International has for the last three years been conducting youth leadership programs. Since 1924 it has provided self-improvement to over 1 million men through the formation of 3,600 local clubs in the United States, Canada and 47 countries and territories.

Young Reports Viet Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Some oily American slicksters, unscrupulous salesmen and operators" are defrauding U.S. servicemen in Vietnam, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, told the Senate Tuesday.

Young said "high-ranking Army officers" have permitted such operations.

Scores of civilians are selling stock to servicemen in Vietnam and in some areas officers are receiving a 2 per cent commission on each sale," supposedly doing this to build up funds for the officers or enlisted men's clubs," Young said.

Humphrey Spells Out His Strategy

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has spelled out what is expected to be his campaign strategy in a quest for the presidency "if I have a chance to carry my message to the American people."

Humphrey, who is expected to announce Saturday as a candidate for the Democratic Nomination, made it clear in a talk to Tennessee party leaders Thursday that any race would be staked on the record of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

The vice president, in an earlier speech keynoting a salute to local colleges, also discussed what looked like an education plank in a campaign platform.

Humphrey said America has seen more progress during the Kennedy and Johnson years than at any previous time. "And I intend to carry their record whatever may be my role. I intend to carry it to every American who will listen."

The vice president said the nation does not need "emotion, frenzy, demagoguery, false promises. We can't afford irresponsible politics. And, whatever the decision of the Democratic convention... I intend to stay a Democrat and I intend to support Democrats."

Again, Humphrey said what the country needs is leadership that is "mature, experienced, responsible and trustworthy."

Controlling Board Releases Funds for State Projects

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Controlling Board released a total of $70,650 Thursday to keep inmates in the Juvenile Diagnostic Center and to keep them warm at the state's new maximum security prison.

Board members approved $22,500 to increase the height of more than a mile of fence around the juvenile center here from nine to 12 feet in an effort to curb escapes.

And $48,150 was approved to equip the new southern Ohio penitentiary with gas instead of coal heat. The action came after calculations that a new low rate for gas would save $8,300 a year in operating costs and $500,000 in capital improvements.

The money approved Thursday was for architects' fees to redesign the prison heating plant.

The new prison at Lucasville in Scioto County will replace the outdated and overcrowded Ohio Penitentiary near downtown Columbus.

Medina County commissioners won release of $333,620 as the state share of building a new trunk sewer.

The board approved an additional $300,000 to repay courts for legal fees for poor clients and for court costs for the balance of the state's bookkeeping year.

Mental Hygiene Department officials won $600,000 to stock a new drug distribution center and central laboratory service for state institutions for six weeks.

Board members granted $700,000 for noncontract grading and other work in connection with the $4.8 million contract for an Ohio approach to the Ohio River span which will replace the collapsed Silver Bridge.

GE To Build Jet Engines For Airbuses

CINCINNATI (AP)—The General Electric Co. will build engines for 30 tri-jet airbuses which United Airlines ordered Thursday.

Most of the work on the CF6-36 turbofan engines will be done at Cincinnati's suburban Evendale GE plant and a GE spokesman here said the engines are in development and component test stages.

But contrary to speculation, the spokesman said, "we do not anticipate any significant immediate impact on engine aircraft group employment at the Evendale division."

He added that initial testing of the full-scale engine is expected before the end of the year. The engines for the 30 jets, which have a capacity of 266 passengers and a total cost of $465 million will run about $64 million.

Stop Foolish Job Practices, Walker Urges

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ohio Industrial Relations Director William O. Walker had some criticism Thursday for employers who make it too difficult to get jobs and for the unemployed who don't try to get jobs.

"There are jobs today for everyone who wants to work," said Walker in criticizing those who, "are making a profit out of being unemployed."

"Industry, on the other hand, is using involved training programs which 'make it too complicated to hire a man,' he told a luncheon meeting of the National Association of Inter-group Relations.

"If you want to hire a man today," said Walker, "You've got to train him, indoctrinate him, vaccinate him and insulate him before he can go to work. Let's cut out all these frills and foolishness and just hire some people."

Teen Toastmaster Grads Honored by Circleville Club

There was no "loss for words" Thursday evening during the combined graduation ceremonies for the 22 teenagers who completed the two 8-week youth leadership courses sponsored by the Circleville Toastmaster Club.

Parents and teachers attended the event at Circleville High School where four students from the classes competed in speech contests to determine the best speakers.

The winner and runnerup for Class No. 1 were John Brobst and Brooks Davis, respectively. The winner and runnerup for Class No. 2 was Vanessa Hatfield and Wes Jones.

Class No. 2 was determined the best class. Miss Sharon Archer served as toastmistress of the evening and conducted the ceremonies.

Miss Sandy Porter served as table topics chairman, providing entertainment by selecting subjects for impromptu talks by 14 graduates. This seminar was won by Mike Fuller. Miss Brenda Southward and Miss Pam Hatfield served as toastmistresses for class 1 and 2 respectively.

Judging was conducted by the following members of the Circleville Toastmasters Club: Tom Fitzgerald, Tom Matosky, Dale Mears, Chuck Orr, Pheris Kreiger, Ken Smith and Howard Snook. Gary Agin served as timer.

Bill Gary, speaker from Circleville Toastmasters Club who won first place at the club, area and division levels in this year's serious speech contests gave a talk explaining to the guests and parents what the youth leadership course was about.

Officials of Toastmasters International including district governor Orville Hullinger, division governor Carl Harrington, and district youth leadership chairman Ed Reese attended the event. Certificates were awarded to those who had successfully completed the program.

Among those present also were the members of the Circleville Toastmasters club who conducted the two classes. Class 1 was conducted by Robert Ogden, George Robinson and Rusty Vaughan. Class 2 was conducted by William Kirkpatrick, and William Gary.

The chairman of the youth leadership program, Robert Ogden, in presenting certificates, congratulated the young people and complimented them on their poise and confidence.

"The training these students have been receiving through the youth leadership program will enable them to be participants in the important activities of our community and our country instead of mere onlookers," he said.

Also present were Edward G. Grigg, General Electric plant manager, Fritz Jacobs, Circleville superintendent of schools and Richard Gerhardt, mayor.

District Governor Orville Hullinger gave a brief talk before he awarded trophies to speech contest winners.

Hullinger also presented outgoing area governor William Kirkpatrick a certificate of appreciation.

After the presentation of awards for best impromptu

speakers, Division Governor Carl Harrington stated that through seeing and hearing this program tonight and those sponsored by other toastmaster clubs it is possible to see that the gap in communications between the youth of today and the adults is less than most of us believe.

He commented that Toastmasters International has for the last three years been conducting youth leadership programs. Since 1924 it has provided self-improvement to over 1 million men through the formation of 3,600 local clubs in the United States, Canada and 47 countries and territories.

Young Reports Viet Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Some oily American slicksters, unscrupulous salesmen and operators are defrauding U.S. servicemen in Vietnam, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, told the Senate Tuesday.

Young said "high-ranking Army officers" have permitted such operations.

Scores of civilians are selling stock to servicemen in Vietnam and in some areas officers are receiving a 2 per cent commission on each sale," supposedly doing this to build up funds for the officers or enlisted men's clubs," Young said.

Humphrey Spells Out His Strategy

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has spelled out what is expected to be his campaign strategy in a quest for the presidency "if I have a chance to carry my message to the American people."

Humphrey, who is expected to announce Saturday as a candidate for the Democratic nomination, made it clear in a talk to Tennessee party leaders Thursday that any race would be staked on the record of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

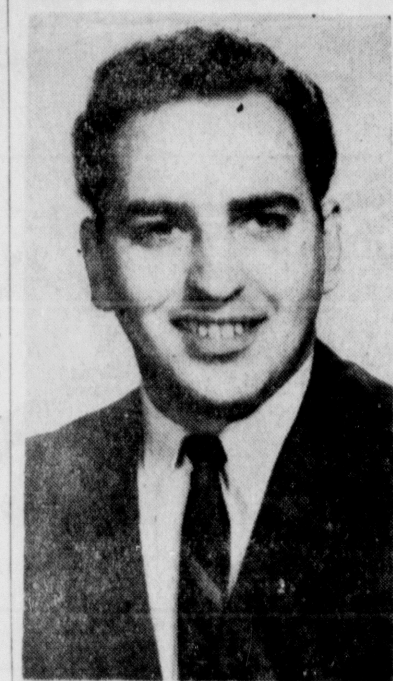

The vice president, in an earlier speech keynoting a salute to local colleges, also discussed what looked like an education plank in a campaign platform.

Humphrey said America has seen more progress during the Kennedy and Johnson years than at any previous time. "And I intend to carry their record whatever may be my role. I intend to carry it to every American who will listen."

The vice president said the nation does not need "emotion, frenzy, demagoguery, false promises. We can't afford irresponsible politics. And, whatever the decision of the Democratic convention... I intend to stay a Democrat and I intend to support Democrats."

Again, Humphrey said what the country needs is leadership that is "mature, experienced, responsible and trustworthy."

Controlling Board Releases Funds for State Projects

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Controlling Board released a total of $70,650 Thursday to keep inmates in the Juvenile Diagnostic Center and to keep them warm at the state's new maximum security prison.

Board members approved $22,500 to increase the height of more than a mile of fence around the juvenile center here from nine to 12 feet in an effort to curb escapes.

And $48,150 was approved to equip the new southern Ohio penitentiary with gas instead of coal heat. The action came after calculations that a new low rate for gas would save $8,300 a year in operating costs and $500,000 in capital improvements.

The money approved Thursday was for architects' fees to redesign the prison heating plant.

The new prison at Lucasville in Scioto County will replace the outdated and overcrowded Ohio Penitentiary near downtown Columbus.

Medina County commissioners won release of $33,620 as the state share of building a new trunk sewer.

The board approved an additional $300,000 to repay courts for legal fees for poor clients and for court costs for the balance of the state's bookkeeping year.

Mental Hygiene Department officials won $600,000 to stock a new drug distribution center and central laboratory service for state institutions for six weeks.

Board members granted $700,000 for noncontract grading and other work in connection with the $4.8 million contract for an Ohio approach to the Ohio River span which will replace the collapsed Silver Bridge.

The board also released: $38.4 million in April school foundation funds.

$500,000 for summer school inner city public school teachers, a program planned by the Ohio Board of Regents.

$60,000 to repair the Ohio 7 bridge over Short Creek in Jefferson County which collapsed under a truck April 9.

$35,000 in university funds to buy 70 acres in Portage County for an outdoor biology laboratory about eight miles from the campus of Kent State University.

$10,000 to help provide flood control protection for the village of Ottawa through the Maumee Watershed Conservancy District.
